Part I examines the potential of online research tools for literary scholarship, while Part II outlines a prehistory of digital virtuality by exploring specific Victorian cultural forms.

Instructional Design for Task Expertise Charles M. Reigeluth, Yunjo An, Peter C. Honebein, 2026-01-30 Instructional Design for Task Expertise provides fundamental guidance in designing learner-centered instruction for developing task expertise across educational and training contexts. This textbook is structured into units on defining, designing, developing, and evaluating the instruction. Addressing the field's need for improvement in design process models, the book introduces graduate students, faculty, instructional designers, and learning experience designers to the Holistic 4D Model as a framework through which they can conduct a one-semester ID project in a small team. The authors offer guidance toward integrating key new advancements such as the integration of learner-centered instructional theory with the ID process, holistic design processes, and instructional sequences analysis, design evaluation cycles, rapid prototyping, and more. Chapters include procedural and heuristic guidance, real-world examples, and activities to help novice and experienced instructional designers better connect theory to practice.

The Social Media Age Zoetanya Sujon, 2021-04-07 Exploring power and participation in a connected world, social media are all around us. For many, they are the first things to look at upon waking and the last thing to do before sleeping. Integrated seamlessly into our private and public lives, they entertain, inform, connect, and sometimes disconnect us. They're more than just social though. In addition to our experiences as everyday users, understanding social media also means asking questions about our society, our culture, and our economy. What we find is dense connections between platform infrastructures and our experience of the social, shaped by power-shifting patterns of participation and a widening ideology of connection This book introduces and examines the full scope of social media From the social to the technological from the everyday to platform industries from the personal to the political It brings together the key concepts theories and research necessary for making sense of the meanings and consequences of social media both hopefully and critically Dr Zoetanya Sujon is a Senior Lecturer and Programme Director for Communications and Media at London College of Communication University of the Arts London      The New York Times Magazine ,1976
