Making Managers in Canada, 1945-1995 Jason Russell, 2018-06-14 Management education and training was a key influence on Canadian capital and labour in the post World War II decades however it has been the subject of comparatively little academic inquiry In many ways historians have frequently learned about management behavior in unionized workplaces by examining labor management relations The management experience has thus often been seen through the eyes of rank and file workers rather than from the perspective of managers themselves This book discusses how managers were trained and educated in Canada in the years following the Second World War Making Managers in Canada 1945 1995 seeks to shed light on the experience of workers who have not received much attention in business history managers This book approaches management training from both institutional and social history perspectives Drawing from community colleges universities and companies in British Columbia Ontario and Quebec this book reveals the nature of management education and training in English and French Canada It integrates institutional analysis and examines how factors such as gender and social class shaped the development of Canadian management in the post war years and illustrates the various international influences on Canadian management education

Ivory Tower Blues James Cote, Anton L. Allahar, 2007-05-26 The present state of the university is a difficult issue to comprehend for anyone outside of the education system If we are to believe common government reports that changes in policy are somehow making life easier for university graduates we cannot help but believe that things are going right and are getting better in our universities Ivory Tower Blues gives a decidedly different picture examining this optimistic attitude as it impacts upon professors students and administrators in charge of the education system Ivory Tower Blues is a frank account of the contemporary university drawing on the authors own research and personal experiences as well as on input from students colleagues and administrators James E C t and Anton L Allahar offer an insider s account of the university system an accurate alternative view to that overwhelmingly presented to the general public Throughout the authors argue that fewer and fewer students are experiencing their university education in ways expected by their parents and the public The majority of students are hampered by insufficient preparation at the secondary school level lack of personal motivation and disillusionment Contrary to popular opinion there is no administrative or governmental procedure in place to maintain standards of education Ivory Tower Blues is an in depth look at the crisis facing Canadian and American universities the factors that are precipitating the situation and the long term impact this crisis will have on the quality of higher education
