G. Williamson, 1986 Counseling Strategies and Interventions Louise Sherilyn Cormier, Harold Hackney, 1999 As you begin the process of understanding the role of helper and as you acquire the necessary skills required for effective helping you will come to realize that the ultimate goal is to develop your abilities to the point that they are a natural extension of your existing interpersonal skills But this will not be the case in the beginning The interventions and even the conceptualizations may seem unnatural inconsistent with your existing behaviors or inappropriate. As you become more accomplished in the craft of counseling these counseling skills will begin to feel more comfortable, appropriate and effective. Ultimately they will become a natural part of your professional practice.

Skills for Helping Professionals Anne M. Geroski, 2016-01-04. Written specifically for non clinical undergraduate students but also relevant to graduate studies in helping professions. Skills for Helping Professionals by Anne M Geroski focuses on helping students develop the skills they need to effectively initiate and maintain helping relationships. After exploring the literature identifying critical components of helping relationships and briefly reviewing developmental and helping theories the text covers such topics as the helping process, self awareness and ethics in helping and then focuses on specific helping skills such as listening and hearing, empathy, reflecting, paraphrasing, questioning, clarifying, exploring and offering feedback, encouragement and psycho education. The final chapters focus on individuals in crisis and helping in groups.
