Cosmopolitan Sex Workers Christine B.N. Chin, 2013-05-02 Analysis of the women who migrate for sex work the organizations that facilitate these placements and the hierarchies that persist within the trade all of which unfold in Kuala Lumpur Malaysia

Gender, UN Peacebuilding, and the Politics of Space Laura J. Shepherd, 2017-08-02 The United Nations Peacebuilding Commission UNPBC was established in December 2005 to develop outlines of best practice in post conflict reconstruction and to secure the political and material resources necessary to assist states in transition from conflict to peacetime Currently the organization is involved in reconstruction and peacebuilding activities in six countries Yet a 2010 review by permanent representatives to the United Nations found that the hopes of the UN peacebuilding architecture despite committed and dedicated efforts had yet to be realized Two of these hopes relate to gender and power specifically that peacebuilding efforts integrate a gender perspective and that the Commission consult with civil society NGOs and women's organizations This book is the first to offer an extensive and dedicated analysis of the activities of the UN Peacebuilding Commission with regard to both gender politics broadly conceived and the gendered dynamics of civil society participation in peacebuilding activities Laura J Shepherd draws upon original fieldwork that she conducted at the UN to argue that the gendered and spatial politics of peacebuilding not only feminizes civil society organizations but also perpetuates hierarchies that privilege the international over the domestic realms The book argues that the dominant representations of women gender and civil society in UN peacebuilding discourse produce spatial hierarchies that paradoxically undermine the contemporary emphasis on bottom up governance of peacebuilding activities

Transnational Marriage and Partner Migration Anne-Marie D'Aoust, 2022-02-11 This multidisciplinary collection investigates the ways in which marriage and partner migration processes have become the object of state scrutiny and the site of sustained political interventions in several states around the world Covering cases as varied as the United States Canada Japan Iran France Belgium or the Netherlands among others contributors reveal how marriage and partner migration have become battlegrounds for political participation control and exclusion Which forms of attachments towards the family the nation or specific individuals have become framed as risks to be managed How do such preoccupations translate into policies With what consequences for those affected by them in terms of rights and access to citizenship The book answers these questions by analyzing the interplay between issues of security citizenship and rights from the perspectives of migrants and policymakers but also from actors who negotiate encounters with the state such as lawyers non governmental organizations and translators

Handbook on Gender and Security Jutta Joachim, Annica Kronsell, Natalia Dalmer, 2025-04-09 This Handbook presents a comprehensive overview of the connections between gender and in security in international relations Bringing together experts from diverse disciplines it showcases innovative research illustrating how past and recent developments have shaped our understanding of this relationship Out of Time Rahul Rao,2020-03-09 This book explores the afterlives of colonialism and the futures imagined in its wake in the queer politics of Uganda India and Britain Revitalizing intersectional thinking it offers an original interpretation of why queerness mutates to become a metonym for categories such as nationality religiosity race class and caste The book argues that these mutations reveal the deep grammars forged in the violence that founds and reproduces the social institutions in which queer difference struggles to make space for itself Handbook on Rural and Remote Education Jerry D. Johnson,Hobart L. Harmon,2025-04-09 This essential Handbook presents international research on rural and remote education With contributions from authors across Africa Asia Australia Europe and the Americas the Handbook on Rural and Remote Education explores major challenges in diverse contexts and suggests innovative strategies for future development Theories of International Relations ,2022-01-13 This introductory textbook on international relations theory brings together a selection of leading experts to offer an unparalleled insight into the main paradigms and latest developments in the discipline Presenting a full range of theories from realism and liberalism to institutionalism and green theory the sixth edition of this book has been extensively revised to offer a more global introduction to international relations It showcases insights from across the world and employs a historical and sociological perspective throughout to demonstrate how any understanding of IR is time and place contingent New to this edition are two new chapters on postcolonialism and institutionalism as well as boxed cases which apply theory to contemporary empirical examples including gendered policy in the UN the phenomenon of fake news issues on migration and the crisis of the Amazon s forest fires Assuming no prior knowledge of international relations theory this text remains the definitive companion for all students of international relations and anyone with an interest in the latest scholarship of this fascinating field Principles of Sociology James E. Curtis,Lorne Tepperman,2006 A brief version of Lorne Tepperman s and James Curtis Sociology Canadian Perspectives this text introduces students to the study of sociology through an overview of sociological theories and research methods and a discussion of how these are applied to the study of major social processes and institutions A team of contributors explain key concepts and theories by examining Canadian society within a global context Footnotes ,2002 Arts & Humanities Citation Index ,1993 Gender and International Migration Katharine M. Donato,Donna Gabaccia,2015-03-30 In 2006 the United Nations reported on the feminization of migration noting that the number of female migrants had doubled over the last five decades Likewise global awareness of issues like human trafficking and the exploitation of immigrant domestic workers has increased attention to the gender makeup of migrants But are women really more likely to migrate today than they were in earlier times In Gender and International Migration sociologist and demographer Katharine Donato and historian Donna Gabaccia evaluate the historical evidence to show that women have been a significant part of migration flows for centuries The first scholarly analysis of gender and migration over the centuries Gender and International Migration demonstrates that variation in the gender composition of migration reflect not only the movements of women relative to men but larger shifts in immigration policies and gender relations in the changing global economy While most research has focused on women migrants after 1960 Donato and Gabaccia begin their analysis with the fifteenth century when European colonization and the transatlantic slave trade led to large scale forced migration including the transport of prisoners and indentured servants to the Americas and Australia from Africa and Europe Contrary to the popular conception that most of these migrants were male the authors show that a significant portion were women The gender composition of migrants was driven by regional labor markets and local beliefs of the sending countries For example while coastal ports of western Africa traded mostly male slaves to Europeans most slaves exiting east Africa for the Middle East were women due to this region's demand for female reproductive labor Donato and Gabaccia show how the changing immigration policies of receiving countries affect the gender composition of global migration Nineteenth century immigration restrictions based on race such as the Chinese Exclusion Act in the United States limited male labor migration But as these policies were replaced by regulated migration based on categories such as employment and marriage the balance of men and women became more equal both in large immigrant receiving nations such as the United States Canada and Israel and in nations with small immigrant populations such as South Africa the Philippines and Argentina The gender composition of today's migrants reflects a much stronger demand for female labor than in the past The authors conclude that gender imbalance in migration is most likely to occur when coercive systems of labor recruitment exist whether in the slave trade of the early modern era or in recent guest worker programs Using methods and insights from history gender studies demography and other social sciences Gender and International Migration shows that feminization is better characterized as a gradual and ongoing shift toward gender balance in migrant populations worldwide This groundbreaking demographic and historical analysis provides an important foundation for future migration research

Complicit Sisters Sara de Jong, 2017 NGOs headquartered in the North have been for some time prominent actors in attempts to address the poverty lack of political representation and labor exploitation that disproportionately affect women from the global South Feminist NGOs and NGOs focusing on women's rights have been successful in attracting attention to their causes but critics argue that the highly educated elites from the global North and South who run them fail to effectively question the power hierarchies in which they operate In order to give depth to these criticisms Sara de Jong interviewed women NGO workers in seven different European countries about their experiences and perspectives on working on gendered issues affecting women in the global South as well as migrant women in the global North Complicit Sisters untangles and analyzes the complex tensions women NGO workers face and explores the ways in which they negotiate potential complicities in their work Unlike other studies looking at development workers on the ground this book examines the women NGO workers in the global North who work to influence high level gender advocacy and policy alongside women NGO workers supporting migrant women within the global North a unique combination Weighing the women's first hand accounts against critiques arising from feminist theory postcolonial theory global civil society theory and critical development literature de Jong brings to life the dilemmas of doing good

The Politics of Women and Migration in the Global South David Tittensor, Fethi Mansouri, 2017-03-09 This book shines a light on the issues of governance rights and the injustices that are meted out to an ever growing and vulnerable sector of the global migrant community women Whilst much of the current literature continues to focus on the issues of remittances and brain drain there has been very little that examines concerns regarding governance and rights for female workers This is especially true of the case of women who are particularly vulnerable and have been subject to sexual abuse Such an omission is pressing given the fact that as of 2009 only 42 countries have signed the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of Migrants and Members of their Families The authors thus demonstrate that migrants moving within the Global South are at a greater risk of being subject to social injustices on account of less developed welfare systems

Globalization, Prostitution and Sex Trafficking Elina Penttinen, 2007-08-07 Globalization has been traditionally interpreted as a phenomenon that takes place at the macro level and is determined by states and markets This volume takes a different approach to understanding globalization showing how through the global sex trade globalization is embodied and enacted by individuals Elina Penttinen illustrates how the global sex industry feeds on complex global flows Drawing on extensive fieldwork on the trafficking of Russian and Baltic female sex workers she demonstrates how the embodiment and reiteration of globalization on the bodies of gendered individuals are tied to the larger processes of globalization Appadurai's framework of landscapes of globalization is developed into a framework of shadow sexscapes in order to show how the global sex industry feeds on complex global flows and in turn operates as a form of shadow globalization Globalization Prostitution and Sex Trafficking will be of interest to students and researchers of international relations globalization and gender studies

Migrant Women and Work Anuja Agrawal, 2006-05-10 This volume is focused on Asian women who migrate either globally or across the Asian continent or within their respective countries in order to seek work The contributors cover a broad terrain of issues including the changing gender composition of migration streams the motivations of individual migrants the different outcomes of male and female migration and discernible patterns in the migration of women The distinguishing feature of this collection of original essays and case studies is that it concentrates on solo migrant women The contributors show that even though migration involves moving away from their homes the family both as an institution and an ideology constraints and shapes the choices of migrant women Additionally the case studies demonstrate that gender ideologies remain highly resistant to modification even consequent to a radical alteration in the household division of labour owing to women s migration On the other hand women see migration as a way of achieving greater autonomy as well as fulfilling a role as a responsible adult Overall the volume argues that the structural ramifications of women s migration extend beyond the lives of the migrant women themselves in so far as their labour plays an important role in shaping gender relations in the societies of both the migrants and their hosts An important contribution to the literature on migration this volume will attract the attention of all social scientists but particularly those studying migration gender family labour sociology and anthropology

Sex at the Margins Laura María Agustín, 2007-05 Laura Agustín presents an analysis of the position prostitutes occupy within the global economy

Worker-Mothers on the Margins of Europe Leyla J. Keough, 2016-02-01 Unravels complex gendered moral economies that guide migratory practices and choices of female domestic workers from Gagauz Yeri to Istanbul Olena Fedjuk Anthropology of East Europe Review Following Moldovan women who commute for six to twelve months at a time to work as domestics in Istanbul Worker Mothers on the Margins of Europe explores the world of undocumented migrants from a postsocialist state Leyla J Keough examines the gendered moral economies that shape the perspectives of the migrants their employers in Turkey their communities in Moldova and the International Organization for Migration She finds that their socialist past continues to color how the women view their labor and their roles within their families even as they are affected by the same shifts in the global economy that drive migration elsewhere Keough puts scholarship on gender and migration into dialogue with postsocialist studies and offers a critical assessment of international anti trafficking efforts Anyone interested in the phenomenon of migration particularly the gender dynamics of international migration and the politics of trafficking in an era of globalization will find this book an invaluable contribution This is ethnography at its best Kristen Ghodsee Bowdoin College

Gender and Migration Anna Amelina, Helma Lutz, 2018-10-30 From its beginnings in the 1970s and 1980s interest in the topic of gender and migration has grown Gender and Migration seeks to introduce the most relevant sociological theories of gender relations and migration that consider ongoing transnationalization processes at the beginning of the third millennium These include intersectionality queer studies social inequality theory and the theory of transnational migration and citizenship all of which are brought together and illustrated by means of various empirical examples With its explicit focus on the gendered structures of migration sending and migration receiving countries Gender and Migration builds on the most current conceptual tool of gender studies intersectionality which calls for collective research on gender with analysis of class ethnicity race sexuality age and other axes of inequality in the context of transnational migration and mobility The book also includes descriptions of a number of recommended films that illustrate transnational migrant masculinities and femininities within and outside of Europe A refreshing attempt to bring in considerations of queer theory and sexual identity in the area of gender migration studies this insightful volume will appeal to students and researchers interested in fields such as sociology social anthropology political science intersectional studies and transnational migration

Women, Migration and Citizenship Alexandra Dobrowolsky, 2016-02-17 Given the recent and rapid changes to migration patterns and citizenship processes this volume provides a timely compelling empirical and theoretical study of the gendered implications of such developments More specifically it draws out the multiple connections between migration and citizenship concerns and practices for women The collection features original research that examines women's diverse migrant and refugee experiences and exposes how gender ideologies and practices organize migrant citizenship in its various dimensions at the local national and transnational levels The volume contributes to theoretical debates on gender migration and citizenship and provides new insights into their interrelation It includes rich case studies that range from the Philippines and Somalia to the Caribbean and from Australasia to Canada and Britain Designed to have a multidisciplinary appeal it is suitable for courses on migration diversity gender race ethnicity law and public policy comparative politics and international relations
