DESCRIPTION

This one-day seminar will be a thorough examination of the newest edition of CSA Standard S16-09 to be the reference structural steel design standard for the NBCC 2010. The 2009 Edition contains numerous additions to the Standard that deal with new seismic systems (e.g., restrained buckling bracing systems, protected zones), design of single angles in various situations, more detail for laterally unrestrained beams, new material for infill plates with perforations, and new Annexes on topics such as Design to prevent brittle fracture and Structural design for fire conditions (now a procedure permitted by the NBCC).

This CSA Standard is now available from www.shopcsa.ca at the price of $175 (paper copy) and $160 (PDF file). Participants will obtain a 15% discount. Please write to mafred@csce.ca for your discount code.

Who Should Attend – Structural engineers, designers, civil engineers designing in steel, detailers, fabricators and educators.

AGENDA

This course will provide a thorough clause-by-clause review of the CSA Standard S16-09 with particular emphasis on what's new, what's changed, and what has remained the same.

For example:

- Emphasis on practical aspects of changes in this edition that will affect your designs
- Changes impacting the design of laterally unsupported beams explored
- Changes impacting the design of members subject to tension and block shear defined
- Discussion of new clause dealing with connections with welds and bolts in same shear plane
- Why are there new requirements for column anchorages
- New buckling restrained bracing system for seismic lateral load resisting systems introduced to try to match the compressive and tensile resistances of the brace
- Introduction of new requirements for single angles in compression
- The concept of "protected zones" explained
- Steel plate shear walls now have design provisions to handle penetrations through the infill panels
- Requirements for structural documents explained
- Introduction of new guidance to reduce risk of brittle fracture
- Rationale behind the factor,  $R_y$ , applied to the specified yield stress of steel
- Discussion of new Annex which has been added to provide guidance for design under fire conditions
