The Litani River, Lebanon: An Assessment and Current Challenges Amin Shaban, Mouin Hamzé, 2018-04-06 This book presents a collection of chapters covering research on the Litani River Basin The Litani River Basin occupies about a quarter of Lebanon's surface area and it has recently been subject to severe geo environmental conditions such as water contamination and decreased discharge This motivated the Lebanese government to take action and start working on the remediation of the river These actions are also supported by international organizations including the World Bank Waste Management in MENA Regions Abdelazim M Negm, Noama Shareef, 2019-07-05 The book presents the state of the art document describing the knowledge data cost effectiveness and technologies employed to manage the waste in several countries such as Morocco Tunisia Egypt Jordan Syria Palestine Lebanon and Yemen It covers diverse topics including the status of the waste in the region solid waste management solid waste recovery and disposal the use of the agricultural waste in feeding poultry sludge disposal and management wastewater treatment and energy production Also the book explains how waste management systems are becoming more complex in many countries with the move from landfill based to resource recovery based solutions following the setting of international and national targets to divert waste from landfill and to increase recycling and recovery rates Besides this book also evaluates the environmental legislation in the selected countries and suggests new performance enhancements This book is of interest to environmental professionals including scientists and policymakers in the Middle East North Africa and areas with similar features Sustainable States Jon B. Alterman, Natasha Hall, Will Todman, 2021-10-13 The importance of environmentally sustainable public utilities in the Middle East is an improbable topic for a Washington think tank study Yet many countries in the Middle East face serious challenges providing utilities in any manner to their populations and the failure to do so is an increasing flashpoint for public dissatisfaction This study finds that providing more environmentally sustainable services in the Middle East would be an effective way to address many citizens grievances which go beyond the reliability of those services It would also help ameliorate deep dissatisfaction with the quality of governance and help build trust between citizens and their governments This study examines three sectors power water and sanitation and solid waste in Jordan Lebanon and Tunisia While the three countries are different in many ways each faces increasing challenges providing services to their citizens Providing these services in an environmentally sustainable way would also crucially increase each country's resilience and diminish their vulnerability in a chronically unstable region Health Care Waste Management and COVID 19 Pandemic Sadhan Kumar Ghosh, Pariatamby Agamuthu, 2022-11-12 This book deals with the general principles policy instruments sustainability of supply chain and business of health care waste HCW management including inputs on exercise in immune health defense against COVID 19 Health care waste management is very important in any country for protection of environmental and animal and human health The COVID 19 pandemic in addition has augmented this importance to a greater extent Italy has been successful in curbing the problems related to HCW management during the COVID 19 pandemic at very fast rates from the worst situation while for a few countries in Asia and Africa challenges still exist It is necessary that policy makers researchers and implementers gain more knowledge and information on these aspects and improve the strategies and actions Addressing these issues will reduce the cost of health care as well as resource inefficiency hindering sustainable development goals This book is of interest and useful to practitioners capacity builders and policy makers entrepreneurs NGOs and general people and is a valuable source of reference to the relevant researchers and students in global markets The book serves as a reading material for undergraduate and graduate students of environmental science waste management and medical science National and international scientists as well as policy makers will also find this to be a useful read

Sustainable Waste Management Challenges in Developing Countries Pariatamby, Agamuthu, Shahul Hamid, Fauziah, Bhatti, Mehran Sanam, 2019-10-18 As global waste generation increases at a rapid rate there is a dire need for waste management practices such as collection disposal and recycling to protect from environmental pollution However developing countries generate two to three times more waste resort to open dumps more often than developed countries and are slower to integrate waste management standards There is a need for studies that examine the waste generation and practices of countries that share similar economic backgrounds as they strive to implement successful waste management techniques Sustainable Waste Management Challenges in Developing Countries is an essential reference source that discusses the challenges and strategies of waste management practices and the unique waste issues faced by developing countries that prevent them from achieving the goal of integrated waste management While highlighting topics including e waste transboundary movement and consumption patterns this book is ideally designed for policymakers legislators waste company managers environmentalists students academicians and municipal planners seeking current research on the global waste management problem
