Turban,2017-10-12 This new Edition of Electronic Commerce is a complete update of the leading graduate level advanced undergraduate level textbook on the subject Electronic commerce EC describes the manner in which transactions take place over electronic networks mostly the Internet It is the process of electronically buying and selling goods services and information Certain EC applications such as buying and selling stocks and airline tickets online are reaching maturity some even exceeding non Internet trades However EC is not just about buying and selling it also is about electronically communicating collaborating and discovering information It is about e learning e government social networks and much more EC is having an impact on a significant portion of the world affecting businesses professions trade and of course people The most important developments in EC since 2014 are the continuous phenomenal growth of social networks especially Facebook LinkedIn and Instagram and the trend toward conducting EC with mobile devices Other major developments are the expansion of EC globally especially in China where you can find the world s largest EC company Much attention is lately being given to smart commerce and the use of AI based analytics and big data to enhance the field Finally some emerging EC business models are changing industries e g the shared economy models of Uber and Airbnb The 2018 9th edition brings forth the latest trends in e commerce including smart commerce social commerce social collaboration shared economy innovations and mobility The Drivers and Impediments for Cross-border E-commerce in the EU. ,2013 There are no official statistics on international online trade in goods so far This paper uses a consumer survey to construct a unique matrix of online B2C domestic and cross border trade in goods between the 27 EU Member States We compare online and offline trade patterns for similar goods We find that the standard gravity model performs well in explaining online cross border trade flows The model confirms the strong reduction in geographical distance related trade costs compared to offline trade However the trade costs associated with crossing language barriers increase when moving from offline to online trade Institutional variables such as the quality of legal institutions online payments facilities and costefficiency of parcel delivery systems might play a role in cross border trade but they remain statistically insignificant in this dataset In a linguistically segmented market like the EU online home market bias remains high compared to bias in offline cross border trade We conclude that it is hard to predict at this stage whether regulators could boost online cross border trade through improvements in legal and financial systems and parcel delivery infrastructure Cross-border Taxation of E-commerce Björn Westberg,2002 Conduct Cross-Border Commerce

Cross-border Dissemination of Online Content Mark D. Cole,Christina Etteldorf,Carsten Ullrich,2020 Can the rules of the European Union s E Commerce Directive which date back to the year 2000 continue to be valid with regard to the dissemination of content in view of the constantly evolving online environment and the changing role of platforms as a result of new business models The relevant legal foundations in this respect at EU and national level are complex and their interplay is often unclear The resulting uncertainty about who is responsible and therefore liable for certain content requires a critical review of the current legal framework This study conducted by the Institute of European Media Law EMR on behalf of the State Media Authority NRW analyses the current legal framework and reveals ways of enforcing the applicable provisions concerning illegal content It pays special attention to the need for reform of the E Commerce Directive in light of the changing role of platforms Intra-community Cross-border E-commerce Deniz Tekin Apaydin,2012 The aim of this thesis is to explore the barriers posed by the special characteristics of e commerce that undermine consumer confidence in intra Community crossborder e commerce and to introduce possible substantive legal solutions to eliminate those barriers This thesis is based upon the argument that the answer to increasing consumer confidence vis vis intra Community cross border ecommerce lies in empowering individual consumers with effective remedies for goods with quality defects Empirical evidence confirms that accessing rights and remedies is the principle disincentive to consumer confidence This thesis suggests that there are two possible ways to remedy the situation reducing the disincentive and increasing the incentive Pinpointing key areas with reference to empirical evidence a consumer confidence enhancing package is introduced that contains substantive legal solutions that may have a comprehensive impact Implementing this package accessibility of the counterparty and localisation of disputes are identified as critical for improvement Focusing on these formulas manufacturer liability and credit card company liability are introduced as legal mechanisms that have the potential to reduce the disincentive of the consumers by means of facilitating accessibility of rights and remedies The other part of the package involves the introduction of punitive damages as a potent individual private enforcement tool for increasing the incentive for consumers to go to courts for pursuing remedies while fostering compliance by the businesses It is of particular significance for the EU to create confident consumers who engage in Intra Community cross border e commerce as cross border e commerce is a vital motor of integration Therefore this thesis is an attempt to develop legal mechanisms that may address the existing problems of consumer confidence in the EU particularly in such a critical time that calls for stronger measures The more confident consumers are the more Internal Market is likely to flourish Modern
