Education in this country has evolved dramatically from the days of one teacher in a one room schoolhouse Today student learning is no longer confined to a physical space Computers and the Internet have broken through school walls giving students greater opportunities to personalise their education access distant resources receive extra help or more challenging assignments and engage in learning in new and unique ways This book provides a new look at the relatively new enterprise of online learning in the K 12 arena which is expanding rapidly with increasing numbers of providers offering services and more students choosing to participate As with any education program online learning initiatives must be held accountable for results Thus it is critical for students and their parents as well as administrators policymakers and funders to have data informing them about program and student outcomes and if relevant about how well a particular program compares to traditional education models Rigorous evaluations are essential to this process and are included in this book They identify whether programs and online resources are performing as promised and equally important they can point to areas for improvement

Basic Writing in America Nicole Pepinster Greene, Patricia J. McAlexander, 2008 Basic Writing in America published three decades after Mina Shaughnessy's Errors and Expectations presents the kind of educational stories envisioned by The City University of New York's Patricia Laurence Each of these stories has its own unique setting conflict and outcome Yet together they give a powerful and dramatic portrait of basic writing in four year colleges and universities across the country In the Introduction the editors argue that basic writing programs involved a new concept of writing remediation Receiving impetus from the American civil rights movement these programs defined postsecondary education not in terms of an investment for society but as an individual right Indeed a major purpose of basic writing was to facilitate the integration of underrepresented groups into America's colleges and universities The chapters describe the often hostile responses to basic writing and its students the low status of basic writing programs within English departments and universities clashes within the basic writing field itself pedagogical developments in composition as applied to basic writing and the professionalization of basic writing faculty They also show as years pass the raising of college admission standards the elimination or downsizing of basic writing programs and the channeling of less qualified students to two year colleges But in a number of institutions there are also innovations and successes including the emergence of a new type of basic writing program one that is more integrated with the college or university and that offers learning support to a wider range of students
