This book provides a comprehensive discussion of Adaptable Design (AD). It covers the conception, method and application of AD to the real world product design. AD's benefits are substantial as it upgrades, reuses, remanufactures and recycles products throughout the product lifecycle. It rapidly adapts the existing design in development of new designs. Online shopping has become increasingly popular due to its availability and ease. As a result, it is important for companies that sell high end products to maintain the same marketing success as companies selling more affordable brands in order to keep up with the market. Digital Marketing Strategies for Fashion and Luxury Brands is an essential reference source for the latest scholarly research on the need for a variety of technologies and new techniques in which companies and brand managers can promote higher end products. John Thornton Caldwell's landmark Specworld demonstrates how twenty first century media industries monetize and industrialize creative labor at all levels of production. Through illuminating case studies and rich ethnography of colliding social media and filmmaking practices, Caldwell takes readers into the world of production, workshopping and trade mentoring to show media production as an untidy social construct rather than a unified, stable practice. This messy, complex system, he argues, is full of discrete yet interconnected parts that include legacy production companies, marketers and influencers, aspirant online producers, data miners, financiers, talent agencies and more. Caldwell peels away the layers of these embedded production systems to examine the folds, fault lines and fractures that underlie a risky, high pressure and often exploitative industry With insights on the ethical and human predicament faced by industry hopefuls and crossover creators seeking professional careers Caldwell offers new interpretive frames and research methods that allow readers to better see the hidden and multifaceted financial logics and forms of labor embedded in contemporary media production industries Essentials of Public Health Communication Claudia Parvanta, 2011 Health Behavior Education Promotion
