Francesco Lanzara, 2016-03-18 How disruptions and discontinuities caused by the introduction of new technologies often reveal aspects of practice not previously observed What happens in an established practice or work setting when a novel artifact or tool for doing work changes the familiar work routines Any unexpected event or change or technological innovation creates a discontinuity organizations and individuals must reframe taken for granted assumptions and practices and reposition themselves To study innovation as a phenomenon then we must search for situations of discontinuity and rupture and explore them in depth In Shifting Practices Giovan Francesco Lanzara does just that and discovers that disruptions and discontinuities caused by the introduction of new technologies often reveal aspects of practice not previously observed After discussing methodological and research issues Lanzara presents two in depth studies focusing on processes of design and innovation in two different practice settings music education and criminal justice In the first he works with the music department of a major American university to develop Music LOGO a computer system that allows students to explore musical structures with simple composition like exercises and experiments In the second he works with the Italian court system in the design and use of video technology for criminal trials In both cases drawing on anecdotes and examples as well as theory and analysis he traces the new systems from design through implementation and adoption Finally Lanzara considers the researcher s role and the relationship encompassing empathy vulnerability and temporality between the reflective researcher and actors in the practice setting
