Robinson,Michele Rountree,Michael Spencer,Martell L. Teasley,2023-08-30 Dual Pandemics Creating Racially Just Responses to a Changing Environment through Research Practice and Education commits to promoting and disseminating knowledge that calls for the dismantling of systemic racism and creating racially just responses to the dual pandemics COVID 19 and anti racist uprisings as a result of the murders of Mr George Floyd and many other African Americans and other people of color due to police violence has unprecedented impact on our society While these two pandemics appear to be different in nature both pandemics attest to the fact that systemic racism continues to be a grand challenge and that COVID 19 differentially affects communities and people of color as well as socially disadvantaged groups This book offers intellectually sound examination conceptualization and rigor in providing viable socially just responsive paths forward The volume include chapters that focus on anti racist pedagogy in social work education conceptual discussion contributing to refining a shared understanding of constructs relevant to anti racist social work and micro mezzo and macro social work practice that aims to prevent or eliminate the negative impact of racism as well as promote racial justice equity and inclusion among individuals families groups organizations or communities This book will be of great value to students and scholars of Social Work Public Policy Race and Ethnic Studies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Ethnic Cultural Diversity in Social Work

The Color of COVID-19 Sharon A. Navarro, Samantha L. Hernandez, 2022-06-16 The COVID 19 pandemic has disproportionately affected communities of color while highlighting the prevalence of structural racism in the United States This crucial collection of essays written by leading scholars from the fields of communications political science health philosophy and geography explores the manifold ways in which the COVID 19 pandemic has impacted upon Black Latinx and Indigenous communities and the way we see race relations in the United States The COVID 19 pandemic has exposed the significance of U S health inequalities which the World Health Organization defines as avoidable and unfair It has also highlighted structural racism specifically institutions practices values customs and policies that differentially allocate resources and opportunities so as to increase inequity among racial groups Navarro and Hernandez therefore argue that the COVID 19 pandemic has unleashed a race war in America that has further marginalized communities of color by limiting access to resources by different racial and ethnic minorities particularly women within these communities Moreover the systemic policies of the past that upheld or failed to address the unequal social conditions affecting Blacks Latinxs and other minorities have now been magnified with COVID 19 The volume concludes by offering recommendations to prevent future humanitarian crises from exacerbating racial divisions and having a disproportionate impact upon ethnic minorities This timely volume will be of great interest to those interested in the study of race and the social impacts of the COVID 19 pandemic in the United States
