Unlocking the Power of AI Myra Roldan, 2024-01-01 Artificial intelligence adoption is accelerating across industries but many learning teams may not be moving the needle fast enough Now is the prime opportunity for learning teams to prioritize its usage However although some L D professionals have experimented with generative AI tools few know what the game changing technology really is In this issue of TD at Work Myra Roldan shares A simplified explanation of how AI works The difference between traditional AI and generative AI Sample use cases for L D professionals to think about A brief overview of how to get started using AI Some notes on privacy and ethics The Tools Resources in this issue are an Artificial Intelligence Tool Evaluation Worksheet and an Artificial Intelligence Project Planning Checklist Productive, Not Polarizing Heather Kenyon Casey, This book co published with the National Science Teaching Association NSTA provides the support that K 12 teachers and students need for more complex science investigations Drawing on research that informs effective literacy practices this book pushes back on singular ideologies programs and divisive rhetoric and instead embraces an inclusive perspective for supporting literacy development and learning Readers are encouraged to move beyond debates that divide us and look toward the hard but necessary work of building the partnerships needed to support all students Productive Not Polarizing begins with a focus on community literacies and then describes effective literacy practices across grade levels Designed for a wide audience it will assist educators families and community partners to have informed conversations about what literacy instruction and learning involves Every chapter includes a Community Snapshot describing a real life scenario in which a partnering benefits students an Ideas for Action section that can be adapted to your own context reflection questions and a list of helpful resources that include potential sources of funding Book Features An accessible positive discussion of literacy research and practices for educators families and community partners A response to increasingly contentious conversations about literacy instruction Guidance to help educators engage with key community partners and stakeholders such as administrators families childcare centers afterschool programs and local school boards Opportunities to consider the role of teacher education and professional development in supporting school community conversations Ready to use resources such as reproducible materials and community planning and event guides Optimal Physical Activity across the Lifespan for People of All Abilities Ronald F. Zernicke ,David Arthur Hart, Humans evolved to be mobile within the boundary conditions of Earth and many biological and physiologic systems depend on mechanical loading to maintain integrity during growth and maturation during skeletal maturity and during the aging process These systems subscribe to the use it or lose it principle and thus require continual use to maintain integrity Given that premise considerable basic and clinical research efforts have been directed at optimizing the effectiveness and positive impact of exercise on sports performance and the well being of those with intact systems However those with disabilities or compromised abilities also benefit from exercise protocols and there exists a need to focus attention on these populations as well Given the myriad of biological and physiological systems that benefit from exercise and mechanical loading there is a need for all humans of varying abilities to not only maintain the integrity of their health but to attempt to optimize it recognizing that optimizing each person s health across the stages of the life cycle may require different exercise protocols dependent on stage of life sex genetics and other individualized variables For those with physical disabilities embracing and maintaining such exercise protocols may be challenging but expanded research translation of findings and integration of the outcomes into everyday life to enhance the health and well being of this significant population are needed going forward
