Divostin And The Neolithic Of Central Serbia:

Divostin and the Neolithic of Central Serbia Alan McPherron, Dragoslav Srejskić, 1988 Balkan Prehistory Douglass W. Bailey, 2002-09-11 Douglass Bailey's volume fills the huge gap that existed for a comprehensive synthesis in English of the archaeology of the Balkans between 6500 and 2000 BC. Much research on the prehistory of Eastern Europe was inaccessible to a western audience before now because of linguistic barriers. Bailey argues against traditional interpretations of the period which focus on the origins of agriculture and animal breeding. He demonstrates that this was a period when monumental social and material changes occurred in the lives of the people in this region with new technologies and ways of displaying identity. Balkan Prehistory will be required reading for everyone studying the Neolithic, Copper and early Bronze Ages of Eastern Europe. Lithic Studies: Anatolia and Beyond Adnan Baysal, 2022-03-31 This volume aims to show networks of cultural interactions by focusing on the latest lithic studies from Turkey, Greece and the Balkans, bringing to the forefront the connectedness and technological continuity of knapped and ground stone technologies. Connecting People and Ideas Laura Coltofean, Bettina Arnold, László Bartosiewicz, 2025-03-21 This book presents new research into social networks and the various networking modes that formed during the history of archaeology in distinct geographical settings in Europe, North America and South Asia in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The diverse range of international experts in this edited collection demonstrate that networks can be found everywhere in archaeology, making it a highly interconnected research field. Using a wide array of examples from diverse geopolitical, cultural and social contexts, the volume reveals how essential social networks and networking have been to the development of archaeology, to the production, transfer, exchange and dissemination of archaeological and cross-disciplinary knowledge, and to the formation of upward mobility barriers, transnational research and association of archaeological practitioners. The book is of interest to students and scholars of history of archaeology, history of science, museum studies and interdisciplinary studies. The Rise of Metallurgy in Eurasia Miljana Radivojević, Benjamin Roberts, Miroslav Marić, Julka Kuzmanović-Cvetković, Thilo Rehren, 2021-12-23 The Rise of Metallurgy in Eurasia is a landmark study in the evolution of early metallurgy in the Balkans. It demonstrates that far from being a rare and elite practice, the earliest metallurgy in the world was a common and communal craft activity. (Un)settling the Neolithic Douglass Whitfield Bailey, A. W. R. Whittle, Vicki Cummings, 2005 Unsettling the Neolithic is a radical redirection in the study of the central and east European Neolithic, 6500-3500 cal BC. Attacking the essentialisms of traditional approaches to the period, the volume pushes forward with new thinking about how best to understand human existence at this time in a critical region. Containing major statements by the key authorities on the topic, Unsettling the Neolithic challenges scholars, students, excavators and teachers to think again about the fundamental conceptions with which the Neolithic has been defined since the origins of its academic study. BOOK JACKET Space and Spatial Analysis in Archaeology University of Calgary. Archaeological Association. Conference, Elizabeth C. Robertson, 2006 The archaeology of space and place is examined in this selection of papers from the 34th annual Chacmool Archaeological Conference

Animal Husbandry and Hunting in the Central and Western Balkans Through Time Nemanja Marković, Jelena Bulatović, 2020-11-05 This volume presents the results of new research on animal herding and hunting in the central and western Balkans during the prehistoric and historic periods The investigations cover a wide range of topics related to animal exploitation strategies ranging from broad syntheses to specific case studies Starinar, 2008 Early Farming Cultures in Central Serbia Alan McPherron, Dragoslav Srejskić, 1971 The Zooarchaeology of Fats, Oils, Milk and Dairying International Council for Archaeozoology. Conference, International Council for Archaeozoology, 2005 Fat has been cast as a villain in our modern Western society but for many economies past and present the availability of foods rich in fat could mean the difference between life and death But fat has more to offer than nutrition fats can be used in waterproofing as lubrication and as a base for other items such as perfumes and cosmetics This variety of use means that fats have been a valuable trading commodity for thousands of years The various ways in which fats can be utilised has important implications for the archaeological record The physical methods of extracting the fat from a dead animal will leave differing signs on the carcass while the removal of fats while an animal is alive such as milking has been the focus of much ethnographic research Then there is the matter of how the fats are stored and so on The zooarchaeological study of fats is a complex interdisciplinary area of archaeology The nineteen papers in this volume represent a firm foundation for further research into the past exploitation of this heroic substance Making Spaces Into Places Nenad N. Tasić, Dushka Urem-Kotsou, Marcel Burić, 2020 During three millennia of the Neolithic in southeastern Europe important changes in the social organisation everyday practices and beliefs formed a diverse and rich cultural landscape expressed in settlement patterns architecture and numerous aspects of material culture A growing body of data uncovered over the last few decades shows striking variety in settlement organisation from single layered short lived sites to long lived tell settlements located in different geographical settings In addition small sites e g 0.5 ha and extended settlements also appear in most sub regions This volume brings together new data on the Neolithic of southeastern Europe emphasising the organisation and use of space within the regions of Northern Greece the Balkan hinterland and north western Turkey To this end individual chapters focus either on the intra site organisation of recently excavated settlements or provide an up to date synthesis on the regional level combining old and new data Festschrift für Gheorghe Lazarovici Florian Draşovean, 2001 Proceedings of the Prehistoric Society Prehistoric Society (London, England), 2005 The Emergence of Pottery William K. Barnett, John W. Prehistoric and Protohistoric Sciences, 2007 Proceedings of the XV World Congress of the International Union for Prehistoric and Protohistoric Sciences Proceedings of the XV World Congress Lisbon 4-9 September 2006 The Archaeology of Cult and Religion Peter F. Biehl, François Bertemes, Harald Meller, 2001 This is a collection of twenty one papers deriving from talks given at conferences of the European Association of Archaeologists in 1997 and 1998 The papers discuss specific issues and case studies involving questions of cult and religion in the pre and protohistory of southeast Europe and the Mediterranean looking at sites in Bulgaria Romania Croatia Moravia Italy and Greece southern Russia and Iberia amongst others The papers have been divided into three thematic sections Symbols of the Other World Representation and Imagery Sacred or Profane Conceptions of Cult Places and Life and Death Interpreting Mortuary Practice As the editors note studying prehistoric religion is an ambiguous procedure necessarily mixing the practices of archaeology anthropology religious studies and psychology Yet they anticipate the creation of a generally accepted theoretical framework for the archaeology of cult and religion a method for reconstructing past belief systems from the contextual evidence of material culture thus dragging the archaeology of religion back into the academic mainstream The diverse range of methodological practices represented by these papers clearly highlight the difficulties involved in realising this objective Bulletin signalétique, 1990 A Bioarchaeological Approach to Prehistoric Cemetery Populations from Central and Western Greek Macedonia Sevi Triantaphyllou, 2001 This work examines human skeletal remains from Central and Western Greek Macedonia from the Neolithic to the Early Iron Age focusing on demographic parameters patterns of health and oral status and diet in the study cemetery populations These are explored both at the population level and for subgroups defined by age and or sex Rather than being considered as strictly biologically determined demography health status and dietary patterns are placed in a historical regional and chronological context and the archaeological background of the cemetery populations is taken into account On this basis the author distinguishes roles that certain subgroups held during life in certain communities Study of the manipulation of the deceased also outlines burial practices and traces evidence of mortuary differentiation The relationship between the deceased and the living is considered as a continuous interaction of roles resulting in the establishment affirmation and reaffirmation of social orders
