Impact and implications of AI methods and tools for the future of education Kingsley Okoye, Samira Hosseini, Kamal Kant Hiran, Julius Nganji, 2024-06-07 The congruence of technology such as AI and its use for education can help transform the different pedagogical practices and future of education Educational organizations like The UNESCO and The World Bank are already calling for research and development oriented projects and creation mobilization of technological initiatives on how to re imagine education and operationalize the use of digital technologies for its purpose the Digitized Education Those goals mean or include methodological approaches and wide adoption of the AI methods in fostering education in the classroom or learning environments Also noteworthy is the fact that digitized education is now an inevitable and integral element to achieving the global sustainable development goals SDGs particularly the SDG4 that promotes quality of education Chatgpt and Other Generative AI Tools Jochen Kuhn, Stefan Küchemann, Knut Neumann, Martina Rau, 2025-02-17 In the past ten years applications of generative artificial intelligence GAI have found rapidly growing use in medicine science and daily life Large language models LLMs opened up new avenues in particular for education LLMs have been used to create interactive educational content for students stimulate their curiosity generate code explanations and develop assessment questions Additionally LLMs been applied for language practice anxiety alleviation and feedback provision In higher education LLMs have shown potential for assisting in medical exam preparation and clinical decision making In school education LLMs can help teachers with automated evaluation of student responses and respective adaptive feedback More recently LLM based applications such as chatGPT have been used to generate teaching materials or assessment tasks across different subjects The fields understanding of the effects of the use of LLM based applications in classroom teaching however is still in its infancy GAI tools may help solving a range of tasks in education in particular with respect to teachers and students and teachers efforts to generate content However it is critical that teachers and students do not overly rely on GAI generated solutions but instead critically assess each solution Students should furthermore not use GAI tools to avoid investing relevant mental effort to create mental models or more broadly build up competencies

Comparative Research on Diversity in Virtual Learning: Eastern vs. Western Perspectives Khlaif, Zuheir, Sanmugam, Mageswaran, Itmazi, Jamil, 2023-03-20 In today's modern world it is crucial to ensure diversity and inclusion are present in all forms of education. This can be particularly difficult to achieve in virtual learning environments as educators and students adjust to this new way of teaching and learning. Further study on how schools and institutions across the globe are promoting diversity in online environments is necessary to discover the best practices and ensure education as a whole remains inclusive. Comparative Research on Diversity in Virtual Learning: Eastern vs Western Perspectives collects lived experiences of stakeholders from different countries regarding their experiences with teaching in diverse virtual learning environments. The book identifies characteristics of diversity in virtual online learning and explores the best practices of teaching and learning in said environments. Importantly, the reference covers experiences from both Eastern and Western countries and compares the challenges and opportunities afforded to both. Covering topics such as student engagement, computational thinking, and diverse environments, this reference work is ideal for teachers, administrators, policymakers, researchers, academicians, scholars, practitioners, instructors, and students.

Artificial Intelligence in Animal Behaviour, Veterinary Behaviour and Neurology Holger Andreas Volk, Jasmin Nicole Nessler, Anna Zamansky, Sebastian Meller, Annika Bremhorst, 2025-08-18 The new leap innovation Artificial Intelligence (AI) will significantly accelerate the speed of science and translate into clinical practice faster than clinicians ever have been used to. Machine and deep learning techniques are now readily available to analyze large and complex data sets, providing veterinary scientists with a tool to not only better understand complex behaviour traits and neurological conditions but also to delve into the nuances of animal behaviour itself. AI can now write plausible sounding text, recognize written or spoken human words, recognize objects in images, or analyze large amounts of data. Different fields of applications are known so far, such as improving and speeding up interpretation of radiologic findings, interpretation of electroencephalography, diagnosis of autism in children, objectifying ataxia in dogs, detecting pain in cats, and assessing and characterizing animal behaviours across species. At the time of writing, more than 500 AI-based algorithms have been approved by the FDA for human medicine, most of which are used in radiology and neurology. In veterinary neurology and animal behavioural science, only a limited amount of research on AI has been done so far. Most algorithms presented are merely fragments of usable programs and are not suitable for clinical application. Therefore, ready-to-use applications are rare yet essential for implementing AI into everyday routine diagnostic work, ups scientific research, and animal behavioural assessments. The research topic will help to unite current efforts and provide a collection of articles to address some of the current scientific and behavioural gaps. In the future, a clinician might have a clinical decision support tool that generates accurate estimations of likely outcomes of neurological disease and animal behaviour, combining anamnestic, behavioural, clinical, pathology, and imaging information. We are interested in original research, systematic reviews, and opinion papers, not only about the scope and potential of AI for Veterinary Behavior and Neurology but also about the intersection of AI with the study of animal behaviour.

ethical considerations and pitfalls that the development of AI generated tools could present Potential themes therefore include but are not limited to AI to recognize monitor diagnose or characterise behaviour neurological deficits or conditions including a detailed analysis of animal behaviour across a variety of contexts and species AI to assess behavioural states in both clinical and natural environments AI to interpret scientific clinical data sets such as clinical pathology omics imaging EEG data and behaviour metrics Ethical and legal considerations when applying or using AI tools in the study of animal behaviour and veterinary medicine Potential of AI to enhance clinical practice in veterinary behavioural medicine veterinary neurology and animal behaviour research Potential of AI enhanced diagnostic and behavioural assessment tools with animals

Proceedings of the 23rd European Conference on e-Learning Fernando Moriera, Microbiome and Machine Learning, Volume II Erik Bongcam-Rudloff, Marcus Claesson, Aldert Zomer, Randi Jacobsen Bertelsen, Isabel Moreno Indias, Domenica D'Elia, 2024-10-24 Due to the success of Microbiome and Machine Learning which collected research results and perspectives of researchers working in the field of machine learning ML applied to the analysis of microbiome data we are launching the second volume to collate any new findings in the field to further our understanding and encourage the participation of experts worldwide in the discussion The success of ML algorithms in the field is substantially due to their capacity to process high dimensional data and deal with uncertainty and noise However to maximize the combinatory potential of these emerging fields microbiome and ML researchers have to deal with some aspects that are complex and inherently related to microbiome data Microbiome data are convoluted noisy and highly variable and non standard analytical methodologies are required to unlock their clinical and scientific potential Therefore although a wide range of statistical modelling and ML methods are available their application is only sometimes optimal when dealing with microbiome data

Embedding Current Trends and Innovative Pedagogies in Education in Oral Health: Advancing Educational Practices and Research Melanie Nasseripour, Ana Angelova Volponi, Jonathan San Diego, Angelo Leone, Bo Danielsen, 2025-03-03 In recent years oral health educational research has gained momentum and recognition with attention drawn toward its effectiveness Pedagogy and research in pedagogy is no longer limited to pure educationalist but has reached all branches of higher education and in particular health and oral health faculties Teaching and research in teaching is recognized in academic career pathways with curriculum development design informed by research Professionalism ethics management and leadership communication social behavior sciences psychology and clinical humanities are taking up more and more shares of new oral health curricula to answer the demands of current dental care practice and oral health team members The COVID 19 pandemic accelerated adoption of technology to maintain oral health education while lockdown hindered face to face teaching and patient care This in turn required analysis and research in social and digital media artificial intelligence haptics and computer assisted learning virtual and augmented reality as applied to dental education Considering this new landscape in oral health education assessment and assessment strategies have had to evolve and meet new challenges

Assessment for learning as learning and of learning have been designed to ensure graduation of safe beginners The emphasis is on professional identity formation and acquiring lifelong learning skills revolving around feedback reflection and reflective practice The impact on student and staff welfare and wellbeing has been evident and has required research into management and prevention Oral health education has been changed forever and with it the profile of our graduates but also the academics and clinical academics who teach them It is therefore essential to explore this exciting and growing field in a dedicated Research Topic We are calling for original research papers which will look to shine light on current trends as well as innovations developing in the field of education research as applied to oral health professions Work ,1901
