Connected Histories Eva Pfanzelter, Dirk Rupnow, Éva Kovács, Marianne Windsperger, 2024-09-23 The World Wide Web WWW and digitisation have become important sites and tools for the history of the Holocaust and its commemoration Today some memory institutions use the Internet at a high professional level as a venue for self presentation and as a forum for the discussion of Holocaust related topics for potentially international transcultural and interdisciplinary user groups At the same time it is not always the established institutions that utilise the technical possibilities and potential of the Internet to the maximum Creative and sometimes controversial new forms of storytelling of the Holocaust or more traditional ways of remembering the genocide presented in a new way with digital media often come from people or groups who are not in the realm of influence of the large memorial sites museums and archives Such private stagings have experienced a particular upswing since the boom of social media This democratisation of Holocaust memory and history is crucial though it is as yet undecided how much it will ultimately reinforce old structures and cultural regional or other inequalities or reinvent them The Digital space as an arbitrary and limitless archive for the mediation of the Holocaust spanning from Russia to Brazil is at the centre of the essays collected in this volume This space is also considered as a forum for negotiation a meeting place and a battleground for generations and stories and as such offers the opportunity to reconsider the transgenerational transmission of trauma family histories and communication Here it becomes evident there are new societal intentions and decision making structures that exceed the capabilities of traditional mass media and thrive on the participation of a broad public

Integrated Business Models in the Digital Age Sumesh Singh Dadwal, Hamid Jahankhani, Azizul Hassan, 2022-06-21 Many scholars have argued that technology entrepreneurship integrated business models and marketing are key to the success of any business but in particular to the success of unicorn companies However there is a need to further investigate interdisciplinary approaches to techno entrepreneurial business strategy which remains a neglected area of research In this edited volume authors explore and develop principles models and other theoretical and practical concepts to develop better guidance on how to adapt business models using new technologies such as AI cloud computing blockchain cybersecurity and infrastructure Underpinned by established academic theories the book explores integrated business models that are both defensive and offensive in strategic outlook Ultimately it will help students researchers and entrepreneurs to design develop and implement technology enabled integrated business models

Doing Digital Film History Sarah-Mai Dang, Tim van der Heijden, Christian Gosvig Olesen, 2024-12-30 How has the digital turn shaped the practices of film historical research and teaching While computational approaches have been used by film historians since the 1960s and 1970s the arrival and use of digital tools and methods in recent decades has fundamentally changed the ways we search analyze interpret present and so think and write about film history from digital archival and curatorial practices data driven search and analysis of film historical collections to the visualization and dissemination of film historical materials online While film historians have increasingly embraced the new possibilities brought by digital technologies their practical epistemological and methodological implications need further exploration What opportunities does the digitization of film historical sources provide for film historians What new questions can be raised by using digital methods What new perspectives emerge from analyzing interpreting and visualizing film historical data at the levels of both close and distant or scalable reading and viewing By focusing on the concepts tools and practices of digital film historiography this edited volume aims to contribute to a better understanding and critical reflection on the changes and continuities of doing film history in the digital age
