Liabilities and Modern Artificial Intelligence Estelle Wallingford, 2025-09-09 This book addresses how private law liability should be assigned in contexts where modern forms of AI are deployed AI as a technology holds the potential to radically improve global society yet the pace of its advancement far outstrips the pace at which legal systems are responding This book explores legal approaches to AI how AI should be legally characterised and proposes an overarching theoretical liability framework termed the Tri Phase AI Liability Model This framework is flexible in nature and considers the type of AI the context in which it is deployed who has the most control over the AI system and the capacity of a deployed AI In response this book brings greatly needed clarity to the evolving landscape of AI governance aiding in resolving existing and emerging private law challenges This book is a timely response to the urgent need to resolve private law liabilities and will appeal to legal professionals policy makers and scholars looking to understand or contribute to the current and future governance of AI within private law

Artificial Intelligence in Animal Behaviour, Veterinary Behaviour and Neurology Holger Andreas Volk, Jasmin Nicole Nessler, Anna Zamansky, Sebastian Meller, Annika Bremhorst, 2025-08-18 The new leap innovation Artificial Intelligence AI will significantly accelerate the speed of science and translate into clinical practice faster than clinicians ever have been used to Machine and deep learning techniques are now readily available to analyze large and complex data sets providing veterinary scientists with a tool to not only better understand complex behaviour traits and neurological conditions but also to delve into the nuances of animal behaviour itself AI can now write plausible sounding text recognize written or spoken human words recognize objects in images or analyze large amounts of data Different fields of applications are known so far such as improving and speeding up interpretation of radiologic findings interpretation of electroencephalography diagnosis of autism in children objectifying ataxia in dogs detecting pain in cats and assessing and characterizing animal behaviours across species At the time of writing more than 500 AI based algorithms have been approved by the FDA for human medicine most of which are used in radiology and neurology In veterinary neurology and animal behavioural science only a limited amount of research on AI has been done so far Most algorithms presented are merely fragments of usable programs and are not suitable for clinical application Therefore ready to use applications are rare yet essential for implementing AI into everyday routine diagnostic work ups scientific research and animal behavioural assessments The research topic will help to unite current efforts and provide a collection of articles to address some of the current scientific and behavioural gaps In the future a clinician might have a clinical decision support tool that generates accurate estimations of likely outcomes of neurological disease and animal behaviour combining anamnestic behavioural clinical pathology and imaging information We are interested in original research systematic reviews and opinion papers not only about the scope and potential of AI for Veterinary Behavior and Neurology but also about the intersection of AI with the study of animal behaviour ethical considerations and pitfalls that the development of AI generated tools could present Potential themes therefore include but are not limited to AI to recognize monitor diagnose or characterise behaviour neurological deficits or conditions including a detailed analysis of animal behaviour across a variety of contexts and species AI to assess behavioural states in both clinical and natural environments AI to interpret scientific clinical data sets such as clinical pathology omics imaging EEG data and behaviour metrics Ethical and legal considerations when applying or using AI tools in the study of animal behaviour and veterinary medicine Potential of AI to enhance clinical practice in veterinary behavioural medicine veterinary neurology and animal behaviour research Potential of AI enhanced diagnostic and behavioural assessment tools with animals

The De Gruyter Handbook of Robots in Society and Culture Leopoldina Fortunati, Autumn Edwards, 2024-09-23 The De Gruyter Handbook of Robots in Society and Culture provides a comprehensive discussion of how social robots take form function and meaning for individuals relationships cultures and societies Through a path breaking integration of perspectives coming from sociology communication and media psychology cognitive neuroscience anthropology political science and science and technology studies it focuses on the critical and social meaning of present developments in social robotic technologies This book looks at artificial agents from voice based assistants to humanoid robots as their use transforms private and public contexts and gives rise to both new possibilities and new perils for human being and becoming organizations as well as social structures and institutions The handbook traces the consequences and key problems of social robotics across broad social contexts in both public and political as well as domestic and intimate spaces Further it attends carefully to the implications of social robotics for various human identity groups including those based on gender ethnicity culture class ability and age Deep attention to interdisciplinarity inclusivity ethics and socio cultural futures serves as the guiding inspiration behind each contribution within this handbook

Man vs. machine: Experimental evidence on the quality and perceptions of AI-generated research content Keenan, Michael, Koo, Jawoo, Mwangi, Christine, Karachiwalla, Naureen, Breisinger, Clemens, Kim, MinAh, 2025-02-24 Academic researchers want their research to be understood and used by non technical audiences but that requires communication that is more accessible in the form of non technical and shorter summaries The researcher must both signal the quality of the research and ensure that the content is salient by making it more readable AI tools can improve salience however they can also lead to ambiguity in the signal since true effort is then difficult to observe We implement an online factorial experiment providing non technical audiences with a blog on an academic paper and vary the actual author of the blog from the same paper human or ChatGPT and whether respondents are told the blog is written by a human or AI tool Even though AI generated blogs are objectively of higher quality they are rated lower but not if the author is disclosed as AI indicating that signaling is important and can be distorted by AI Use of the blog does not vary by experimental arm The findings suggest that provided disclosure statements are included researchers can potentially use AI to reduce effort costs without compromising signaling or salience Academic researchers want their research to be understood and used by non technical
