Stefanie Reissner,Michal Izak,2025-08-07 This geographically and methodologically diverse volume shines the spotlight on a variety of flexible working practices beyond the predominantly Western perspective and zooms in on the gendered aspects of flexible working The increasing use of flexible work arrangements has decoupled work from time and space making the world of work and home increasingly fluid and challenging to manage The Covid 19 pandemic in particular has been a catalyst for questioning accepted norms of where when and how work takes place This book seeks to explore the impact which this reshaping of traditional modes of working has had on workplace interactions and relationships as well as on managing the boundaries between familial and working lives In this way this collection contributes to a wider dialogue concerning the flexibility challenges encountered by white collar workers which is needed now more than ever This book will be relevant to scholars practitioners and policymakers in the fields of gender studies organizational behavior human resources and labor economics It will be particularly useful for those examining the impact of remote work the future of work organizational culture and the social and economic implications of shifting work practices The chapters in this book were originally published in Culture and Organization and are accompanied by an updated Introduction and a new Epilogue

Homeownership in Hong Kong Chung-kin Tsang,2021-05-24 This book studies the cultural framework of the connections between homeownership and social stability in Hong Kong In the post war period homeownership became the most preferable housing choice in developed societies such as Australia Britain Japan Spain and the United States In the financialization era its proliferation aggregated enormous wealth and debt in the housing and mortgage markets affecting social stability by creating inequality and housing unaffordability Hong Kong is the most extreme example of this among developed societies in recent years the city has made international headlines both for its housing problem and its social instability By studying the history of homeownership in Hong Kong over a period of four decades Chung kin Tsang proposes that homeownership is inseparable from the social imagination of the future conceptualizing this framework as hope mechanism This perspective helps trace the connections between House Buying as a hope mechanism one which is central to subject formation life goals and temporal mapping for socially shared life planning and social stability Given its unique approach specifically its use of hope as an analytical category this book will prove to be a useful resource for scholars in economic culture and financialization and Asian Studies especially those working on the cultural sociopolitical and economic history of Hong Kong

Steelworkers in struggle Charlie McGuire, 2025-05-20 Using oral histories gathered from trade unionists this book explores the national steelworkers strike of 1980 and asserts its significance as a key turning point in modern British history The strike was nominally a response to a 2% pay offer made by British Steel Corporation BSC at a time when inflation was 17% but was generated by the widespread works closures that characterised the British steel industry at this time The outcome of the strike was a much higher pay increase but no change to the deindustrialisation strategy of BSC and the government The book explores the strike from the perspective of those who fought it and reveals the short and longer term consequences it had on the industry the unions and the workers themselves

Building New Nuclear Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Energy and Climate Change Committee, 2013 Failure to build a new fleet of nuclear power stations in the UK could make it much more expensive to meet our climate change targets and Ministers must urgently develop a back up energy strategy The nuclear industry has outlined plans that would deliver 16GW new nuclear power stations by 2025 Although the Government and industry have learnt some important lessons from this process there are still a number of obstacles which could delay new build projects in the UK The Committee supports the Government's use of Contracts for Difference CfDs to help make new nuclear power stations easier to finance but are concerned at the lack of transparency around the price negotiations The new contracts must provide value for money for consumers and should not be offered at a price that is higher than other low carbon sources of energy such as offshore wind which is hoped to be around 100 MWh by 2020 Public attitudes have an important role to play in projects to build new nuclear power stations The Committee is concerned that local communities might not be able to take part in planning consultations on an equal footing with the project developers The report recommends that the Government should consider providing more support to local community groups so that they can engage better with the planning process The Government has plans to allow local authorities hosting renewable energy projects to retain business rates The report argues that this scheme should be extended to new nuclear projects too
