Artificial Intelligence and International Conflict in Cyberspace Fabio Cristiano, Dennis Broeders, François Delerue, Frédérick Douzet, Aude Géry, 2023-05-11 This edited volume explores how artificial intelligence AI is transforming international conflict in cyberspace Over the past three decades cyberspace developed into a crucial frontier and issue of international conflict However scholarly work on the relationship between AI and conflict in cyberspace has been produced along somewhat rigid disciplinary boundaries and an even more rigid sociotechnical divide wherein technical and social scholarship are seldomly brought into a conversation This is the first volume to address these themes through a comprehensive and cross disciplinary approach With the intent of exploring the question what is at stake with the use of automation in international conflict in cyberspace through AI the chapters in the volume focus on three broad themes namely 1 technical and operational 2 strategic and geopolitical and 3 normative and legal These also constitute the three parts in which the chapters of this volume are organised although these thematic sections should not be considered as an analytical or a disciplinary demarcation This book will be of much interest to students of cyber conflict AI security studies and International Relations The Open Access version of this book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

WTF? Tim O'Reilly, 2017-10-10

Can we master the technologies we create before they master us A punchy and provocative assessment by one of Silicon Valley's sharpest observers Financial Times WTF can be an expression of amazement or of dismay and today's technology elicits both reactions In this book Tim O'Reilly dubbed the Oracle of Silicon Valley by Inc magazine explores the upsides and potential downsides of today's WTF technologies What is the future when an increasing number of jobs can be performed by intelligent machines instead of people or done only by people in partnership with those machines What happens to our consumer based societies to workers and the companies that depend on their purchasing power Is income inequality and unemployment an inevitable consequence of technological advancement or are there paths to a better future What will happen to business when technology enabled networks and marketplaces are better at deploying talent than traditional companies How should companies organize themselves to take advantage of these new tools What's the future of education when on demand learning outperforms traditional institutions How can individuals adapt and retrain Will the fundamental social safety nets of the developed world survive the transition and if not what will replace them O'Reilly is the man who can really can make a whole industry happen according to former Google CEO Eric Schmidt and for decades he's identified and helped shape our response to emerging technologies with world shaking potential from the World Wide Web to Big Data and AI Here he shares the techniques he's used at O'Reilly Media to anticipate innovation waves and provides a framework for thinking about how current innovations are changing the nature of business education government financial markets and the economy as a whole He helps us understand how the parts of digital businesses work together to create marketplace advantage and customer value and why ultimately they cannot succeed unless their ecosystem succeeds along with them O'Reilly exhorts businesses to DO MORE with technology rather than just using it to cut costs and enrich their shareholders Robots are going to take our jobs they say O'Reilly replies Only if that's what we ask them to do Technology is the solution to human problems and we won't run out of work till we run out of problems Whether technology brings the WTF of wonder or the WTF of dismay isn't inevitable. It's up to us. A compelling narrative of how technology interweaves with the real world. If it can cajole even a few tech titans to dwell on the social and political impact of what they do, then it will have served a useful purpose. Financial Times WTF is a book about technology as it was, as it is, and as it could be. It is told from the perspective of someone who has been personally present at the most important moments in the fast-paced history of tech and who played a significant role in those moments. Nolan Higdon, Allison Butler, 2024-08-02. Surveillance Education explores the pervasive use of digital surveillance technologies in schools and assesses its pernicious effects on students Recognizing that the use of digital technologies will persist the authors instead offer practical ways to ameliorate their impact In our era of surveillance capitalism digital media technologies are ever more intertwined into the educational process Schools are presented with digital technologies as tools of convenience for gathering and grading student work as tools of support to foster a more equitable learning environment and as tools of safety for predicting or preventing violence or monitoring mental emotional and physical health Despite a dearth of evidence to confirm their effectiveness digital data collection and tracking is often presented as a way to improve educational outcomes and safety This book challenges these fallacious assumptions and argues that the use of digital media technologies has caused great harm to students by subjecting them to oppressive levels of surveillance impinging upon their right to privacy and harvesting their personal data on behalf of Big Tech In doing so the authors draw upon interviews from K 12 and higher education students teachers and staff civil rights and technology lawyers and educational technological programmers The authors also provide practical guidance for teachers administrators students and their families seeking to identify and combat surveillance in education This urgent eye opening book will be of interest to students and educators with interests in critical media literacy and pedagogy and the sociology of technology and education U.S. News & World Report ,1967-04
