Robert I. Berkman, 2008. Social media is the catch-all name for blogs, Web forums, YouTube, MySpace, Facebook and the other internet-based sites where consumers converse and share content. All of this unsolicited and authentic discussion and opinion can be a great source of marketplace insight for companies. From paying close attention to consumer discussions on blogs and other social media, you can discover what new products or product features consumers would like to see and stay alert to emerging trends in your industry that could create new opportunities for your company. Robert Berkman, an experienced information specialist with several books to his credit, gives detailed directions for specialized blog searches, setting up RSS feeds and tracking buzz. He also provides detailed information about vendors who supply blog monitoring services and discusses the pros and cons of using vendors or doing it yourself. For marketers, public relations firms, strategic business analysts and corporate planners, this book gives you everything you need to know to begin finding market intelligence in social media. You will learn to look for trends, distinguish a trend from a fad and determine the credibility of the information you uncover. Moreover, Berkman provides you with tips on organizing all the information you find to help you sift through it, locate just the valuable and relevant content and reduce information overload.

Capitalism and Economic Crime in Africa Jörg Wiegratz, 2024-06-21. This book offers a comprehensive analysis of economic crimes and market irregularities, including matters of trickery, parallel economy, illicit trade, economies of violence and criminalisation of the poor in neoliberal Africa. It investigates economic crime as a phenomenon of neoliberal reform and transformation and it unpacks crime as a societal and particularly as a political economic phenomenon under capitalism. The book brings together a collection of research articles, briefings and updated blog posts that were published over a period of nearly 40 years, 1986-2023, in the acclaimed journal Review of African Political Economy (ROAPE) and on its website roape.net. Featuring contributions from leading experts in the field, including a foreword by Yusuf K. Serunkuma and an afterword by Laureen Snider, this volume explores what these crimes have to do with and can tell us about state-business relations, regulation, capitalist transformation and the corporation on the continent, shedding light on the co-production of the crimes by a range of actors from the realms of business, politics, state and international development, including major reform advocates such as international financial institutions (IFIs) and other donors. It responds to the imperative to advance the analysis of the link between capitalism and crime in Africa and to locate capitalism more centrally in the analysis of economic crimes as more African countries move from being societies with capitalism to capitalist societies. Illustrating the relevance of African countries to debates in criminology, corporate crime, state crime, crimes of the powerful and illegality, this volume engages with and mobilises a variety of literatures to analyse economic crimes as phenomena of global and local capitalism and provides readers from academia government business media civil society and education a striking source of information and analysis East West, 1982-07
