Estimating Digital Infrastructure Investment Needs to Achieve Universal Broadband Edward Oughton,Mr. David Amaglobeli,Mr. Mariano Moszoro,2023-02-10 We develop a detailed model to evaluate the necessary investment requirements to achieve affordable universal broadband The results indicate that approximately 418 billion needs to be mobilized to connect all unconnected citizens globally targeting 40 50 GB Month per user with 95 percent reliability The bulk of additional investment is for emerging market economies 73 percent and low income developing countries 24 percent We also find that if the data consumption level is lowered to 10 20 GB Month per user the total cost decreases by up to about half whereas raising data consumption to 80 100 GB Month per user leads to a cost increase of roughly 90 percent relative to the baseline Moreover a 40 percent cost decrease occurs when varying the peak hour quality of service level from the baseline 95 percent reliability to only 50 percent reliability To conclude broadband policy assessments should be explicit about the quantity of data and the reliability of service provided to users Failure to do so will lead to inaccurate estimates and ultimately to poor broadband policy decisions Africa's Propensity for a Net Zero Energy Transition Samuel Chukwujindu Nwokolo,Anthony Umunnakwe Obiwulu,Paul C. Okonkwo,2024-11-18 This book explores the issue of a sustainable energy transition in Africa including the current energy landscape and exploration of various scenarios for achieving net zero emissions It highlights the challenges faced by African countries in transitioning to clean energy and provides practical solutions for these challenges It provides perceptive analysis and case studies demonstrating how African nations can take advantage of their natural resources including insights from Bhutan and Denmark to achieve sustainable development while mitigating the effects of climate change Features Offers unique insights into the specific challenges and opportunities that Africa faces in achieving a net zero energy future Provides comprehensive understanding of the region's renewable energy potential including analysis of policies and initiatives driving sustainable development Highlights successful case studies emerging technologies and the economic and environmental benefits of transitioning to net zero energy Explores the role of international collaborations and partnerships in supporting Africa's journey toward a net zero energy future Discusses solutions that must be tailored to the specific needs and contexts of African countries This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in the field of sustainability and energy systems
