The Adoption of Artificial Intelligence and Inertia in Higher Education James Hutson, 2025-10-01 This research monograph explores the complex resistance to integrating Artificial Intelligence AI within higher education institutions Despite the significant potential of AI to enhance education faculty adoption remains inconsistent and is often met with skepticism This book investigates key factors contributing to this resistance such as leadership deficits funding barriers cultural inertia and faculty attitudes toward technological change Drawing on qualitative and quantitative empirical data case studies from U S and international institutions and theoretical analysis the book uncovers underlying concerns about job security and professional identity It points to actionable strategies for overcoming these barriers and will be relevant for scholars researchers advanced students and educators grappling with issues navigating technological integration in academia and with interests in the sociology of education educational technology and higher education administration

California Occupational Guide ,1993     Proceedings, the Second International Conference on Industrial & Engineering Applications of Artificial Intelligence & Expert Systems ,1989     Artificial Intelligence in Real-Time Control 1991 M.G. Rodd,G. J. Suski,2014-05-23 This set of proceedings contains the most significant papers presented at the third IFAC Workshop on Artificial Intelligence in Real time Control which was held from September 23 25 1991 in the USA In this workshop although there were still some exotic applications a more practical view of the applications and limitations of current AI technology dominated the participants discussions With its resultant focus on reliability and safety considerations the workshop posed as many questions as it answered It provides an excellent mirror of the current state of the art which these proceedings are intended to illustrate     British Book News ,1989     VLSI Design ,1985     Enhancing the Knowledge Engineering Process Luc Steels,Brice Lepape,1992 In 1983 the Commission of the European Communities launched an ambitious 10 year programme in information technology called ESPRIT European Strategic Programme for Research and Development in Information Technology The papers in this volume focus on the contributions of the second phase of the programme ESPRIT II to the area of knowledge engineering and more specifically on the trend towards more disciplined knowledge engineering methodologies An attempt has been made to establish a coherent volume that will act as a lasting reference source for experts in the field This has lead to a focus on a small number of projects and topics Further contributions have been sourced primarily from those that have established a significant advance in respect of the international state of the art without losing sight of practical realisability and industrial acceptance The book captures work centering around the concept of knowledge level modelling and its use in structuring the complete life cycle validating expert systems acquiring knowledge enhancing capabilities and achieving genericity and re use It shows the high quality and the advanced nature of the research currently being undertaken and indicates that important innovations of extreme relevance to the industry have been achieved However further research and advanced development clearly continues to be needed because the European information technology has far from reached the level of competitiveness required to acquire a greater international market share It is hoped this publication will play an important role in this movement forwards
