Rising Stars in Human-Robot Interaction Bilge Mutlu, Ginevra Castellano, James Everett Young, Séverin Lemaignan, Adriana Tapus, 2022-08-11 Advances in Information and Communication Kohei Arai, 2024-03-16 The book is a valuable collection of papers presented in the Future of Information and Communications Conference FICC conducted by Science and Information Organization on 4-5 April 2024 in Berlin. It received a total of 401 paper submissions out of which 139 are published after careful double-blind peer review. Renowned and budding scholars, academics and distinguished members of the industry assembled under one roof to share their breakthrough research providing answers to many complex problems boggling the world. The topics fanned across various fields involving Communication, Data Science, Ambient Intelligence, Networking, Computing, Security and Privacy.

Patterns of Inclusion Elisabeth Kelan, 2024-08-29 It is widely presumed that digitalisation, automation and artificial intelligence (AI) shape the future of work, yet gender is rarely considered in those debates. This ground-breaking book, written by a leading thinker on gender inclusion and organisations, is based on in-depth research to show which patterns of gender and digitalisation emerge. By weaving these different patterns together, it is possible to understand the dynamic and complex ways gender and digitalisation intertwine in the work context. The book highlights how futures of work are imagined between automation and augmentation; it shows which tasks are expected to be done by machines and where humans are expected to have a competitive advantage. The book showcases how algorithmic bias is constructed as ultimately fixable and analyses its visibilities in AI production processes. Above all, the book shows how patterns relating to gender and inclusion are shaped and could be re-shaped. This innovative book provides a stimulating and provocative read for those who are interested in how automation and AI shape the future of work in regard to gender and what this means for inclusion.

Advancing the Science of Environmental Justice in the International Wildlife Trade Jamie K. Reaser, Nicholas King, Gunārs Hauff, Platais, Ines Arroyo-Quiroz, Meredith L. Gore, Isla Kirkey, 2025-06-03 The Smithsonian Institution has offered to cover the publication costs of most if not all of the papers accepted for this Research Topic. There is a need to conceptualize an environmental justice framework that informs regulation of the international wildlife trade to minimize species endangerment and infectious disease risks while also affording environmental justice to communities, nations, species and ecological systems entwined in the commerce pathway. This Research Topic is dedicated to advancing the science of environmental justice in the international wildlife trade from both problems and solutions perspectives. We welcome manuscripts relevant to legal and/or illegal aspects of the international wildlife trade. Submissions must be of a scholarly nature and framed from a social sciences perspective, although interdisciplinary work is encouraged. The international wildlife trade has been recognized as one of the greatest threats to biodiversity as well as a facilitator of zoonotic disease transmission with pandemic potential. This has led to increased calls for regulation of this megabillion-year industry ranging from comprehensive bans to risk-based strategies that are species, product and/or geography specific. Every aspect of wildlife commerce and every proposed risk mitigation measure has implications for environmental justice yet environmental justice has not been mainstreamed in the scientific inquiry policy nor planning processes relative to the international wildlife trade Because wildlife trade has diverse drivers and purposes as well as different levels of legality social legitimacy and enforcement there is an urgent need to understand the environmental justice issues tied to consumer demand vs supply provision along the trade chain including how this is influenced by economic cultural and geographic biases An understanding of environmental justice patterns and trends is necessary for the design and support of effective regulatory frameworks that manage risks in actuality rather than merely in concept Determining where and how to permit and support legal and sustainable wildlife trade versus where it should be more tightly regulated or even cease requires at least as much understanding of the human animal as it does the wildlife species A greater understanding of the political economy of the illegal aspects of the international wildlife trade from an environmental justice perspective can also open new vistas of green criminological inquiry Ecological citizenship and environmental justice are central themes in green criminology highly relevant to the wildlife trade They recognize justice as central to the right to be protected from harm whether that is one on one harm institutionalized harm or harm arising from human actions that affect climates and environments on a global scale The recognition of such rights in trade regulation is scant and more likely overshadowed by a desire to protect the economic value of a good rather than the inherent value of the wild animal being consumed We will prioritize papers that use social science approaches tools to empirically investigate aspects of environmental justice in the international wildlife trade Manuscripts should be framed so as to facilitate development of an environmental justice framework that informs regulation of the international wildlife trade to minimize species endangerment and infectious disease risks while also affording environmental justice to communities nations and ecological systems entwined in the commerce pathway We welcome manuscripts relevant to legal and or illegal aspects of the international wildlife trade Submissions must be of a scholarly nature we will not accept advocacy documents The following manuscript types will also be considered if the contributions are sufficiently innovative transformative 1 Case studies of environmental justice problems resolutions in the international wildlife trade context 2 Models for advancing the science of environmental justice in the international wildlife trade context 3 Analyses of international wildlife trade law policy frameworks with a view toward integrating environmental justice issues as rooted in scholarly science All papers should emphasize conservation goals outcomes Direct inquiries about other manuscript themes types to Dr Jamie K Reaser at Reaserjk@si.edu This Research Topic was developed in collaboration with the IUCN Commission on Education and Communication <https://www.iucn.org/our-union/commissions/commission-education-and-communication> and the International Alliance Against Health Risks in the Wildlife Trade <https://alliance.health.wildlife.org> Sustainable Entrepreneurship and Family Business for Women's Empowerment Gigauro, Iza, 2025-03-06 Sustainable entrepreneurship within family businesses offers a powerful platform for women s

Artificial Intelligence and the Two Singularities Calum Chace, 2018-04-20 The science of AI was born a little over 60 years ago but for most of that time its achievements were modest In 2012 it experienced a big bang when a branch of statistics called Machine Learning and a sub branch called Deep Learning was applied to it Now machines have surpassed humans in image recognition and they are catching up with us at speech recognition and natural language processing Every day the media reports the launch of a new service a new product and a new demonstration powered by AI When will it end The surprising truth is the AI revolution has only just begun Artificial Intelligence and the Two Singularities argues that in the course of this century the exponential growth in the capability of AI is likely to bring about two singularities points at which conditions are so extreme that the normal rules break down The first is the economic singularity when machine skill reaches a level that renders many of us unemployable and requires an overhaul of our current economic and social systems The second is the technological singularity when machine intelligence reaches and then surpasses the cognitive abilities of an adult human relegating us to the second smartest species on the planet These singularities will present huge challenges but this book argues that we can meet these challenges and overcome them If we do the rewards could be almost unimaginable This book covers Recent developments in AI and its future potential The economic singularity and the technological singularity in depth The risks and opportunities presented by AI What actions we should take Artificial intelligence can turn out to be the best thing ever to happen to humanity making our future wonderful almost beyond imagination But only if we address head on the challenges that it will raise Calum Chace is a best selling author of fiction and non fiction books and articles focusing on the subject of artificial intelligence He is a regular speaker on artificial intelligence and related technologies and runs a blog on the subject at www.pandoras.brain.com Prior to becoming a full time writer and speaker he spent 30 years in business as a marketer a strategy consultant and a CEO He studied philosophy at Oxford University where he discovered that the science fiction he had been reading since boyhood was simply philosophy in fancy dress Artificial Intelligence Abstracts ,1991
