Adapting to climate change in the tropical fruit industry: a technical guide for avocado producers and exporters Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2024-03-12 Climate change is impacting global food production systems making the challenge of feeding the world's growing population more difficult than ever before The tropical fruit sector is particularly at risk from the negative impacts of climate change driven by rising temperatures extreme weather events and associated challenges such as water stress and increased pests and diseases This poses significant risks for the long term sustainability of production and trade of important tropical fruits including avocados Recognizing these challenges the Responsible Fruits Project has developed this technical guide on climate change adaptation for the avocado export industry The guide is for producers and exporters of avocado who are interested in learning more about climate change in the context of their own business systems It was developed through a consultative process with avocado companies and producer organizations participating in the Responsible Fruits Project The purpose of this technical guide is to Provide up to date information on recent and predicted climate change effects and trends in key avocado producing and exporting countries Identify climate change risks and impacts on the production and trade of avocado Identify adaptation practices and recommendations that may help to address these risks minimize negative impacts and build resilience Share good practices adopted by companies to address specific climate related production risks in a sustainable manner Identify gaps in information research and technical solutions needed to strengthen the availability and adoption of adaptation practices

Frontiers of Land and Water Governance in Urban Areas Thomas Hartmann, Tejo Spit, 2017-10-02 A society that intensifies and expands the use of land and water in urban areas needs to search for solutions to manage the frontiers between these two essential elements for urban living Sustainable governance of land and water is one of the major challenges of our times Managing retention areas for floods and droughts designing resilient urban waterfronts implementing floating homes or managing wastewater in shrinking cities are just a few examples where spatial planning steps into the governance arena of water management and vice versa However water management and spatial planning pursue different modes of governance and therefore the frontiers between the two disciplines require developing approaches for setting up governance schemes for sustainable cities of the future What are the particularities of the governance of land and water What is the role of regional and local spatial planning What institutional barriers may arise This book focuses on questions such as these and covers groundwater governance water supply and wastewater treatment urban riverscapes urban flooding flood risk management and concepts of resilience The project resulted from a Summer School by the German Academy for Spatial Research and Planning ARL organized by the editors at Utrecht University in 2013 This book was published as a special issue of Water International Gender transformative change for climate action Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2025-01-22 This technical study highlights the role of discriminatory social institutions unequal power relations and agency in influencing climate resilience processes for sustainable agrifood systems It also defines core characteristics of gender transformative change in climate resilience programming and presents a collection of climate change interventions that address different dimensions of gender transformative change and the management of disaster risks in agrifood systems The main audience for this study consists of food security agriculture climate and gender practitioners and experts with an interest in gender transformative change in interventions related to climate adaptation and disaster risk management The paper was developed in the framework of the Joint Programme on Gender Transformative Approaches for Food Security and Nutrition JP GTA Charcoal, Food, and Water Production in the Tropics: Applying Nexus Thinking to Improve Research and Policy Approaches in Complex Landscapes Tuyeni Heita Mwampamba, Adrian Ghilardi, Rob Bailis, 2020-02-04 Editorial Tuyeni H Mwampamba Rob Bailis Adrian Ghilardi Urbanization food and water consumption trends in many tropical countries show that demand for charcoal as a source of cooking energy meat grain and water will rise to proportions that surpass the ability of existing ecosystems to supply these services simultaneously and at desired qualities Consequently drastic changes to policy and practice are needed to improve ecosystem potential and or alter demand trends Traditional charcoal production in sub Saharan Africa South East Asia and Latin America often competes or co exists with livestock keeping and agriculture and has a tendency to occur in water limited woodlands The co occurrence of charcoal and food production results in complex landscapes characterized by strong interactions between subsystems managed by multiple sets of actors with potentially competing objectives These social ecological systems provide goods and services that are essential to millions of people throughout the global south Nevertheless there have been very few detailed studies of such systems particularly on the individual and combined effects of charcoal crop and livestock production on the hydrological system that maintains them and vice versa As a result these multi use landscapes are typically managed by short sighted highly generalized mono sectorial policies that ignore important tradeoffs and undercapitalize on synergies A system level approach could provide important insights that improve and expand current understanding of this energy food water nexus Tackling urgent and complex problems composed of multiple and interrelated factors lies at the heart of nexus thinking an approach that examines the inter relatedness and interdependencies of environmental resources and their transitions and fluxes across spatial scales and between compartments UNU FLORES 2015 and relies on interdisciplinary research and multi sector policy teams It has attracted significant interest from international organizations the private sector and governments as a way to develop integrated equitable solutions that involve inputs from multiple stakeholders However this approach is notably absent in the research arena Identifying appropriate interventions for achieving sustainable charcoal and food production and maintaining the underlying hydrological system on which they depend requires that the systems are considered simultaneously and that their biophysical social and political inter relations are well understood Taking charcoal as the nexus entry point this Research Topic aims to generate new understanding of charcoal production systems by incorporating agriculture and hydrology into the matrix We were interested in empirical articles reviews meta analytical articles and perspective papers that address at least two of the three nexus components and which offer provocative and insightful perspectives into the nexus as a whole We hope that this Research Topic will 1 facilitate identification of research gaps policy opportunities and priorities for the nexus 2 kick start the development of a community of researchers and practitioners working on the nexus and 3 permit the development of a research agenda that explores the nexus globally across multiple study sites Unasylva ,2013 Guide to Funding for International and Foreign Programs ,2004 OSSREA
