Markets, Governance, and Institutions in the Process of Economic Development Ajit Mishra, Tridip Ray, 2017-10-27 Written in honour of Kaushik Basu Markets Governance and Institutions in the Process of Economic Development is a celebration of over forty years of contributions to development economics Written by Professor Basu s past and present collaborators and research students it offers original insights and perspectives on issues relating to well being freedom and institutions in the developmental context Throughout his career Kaushik Basu has addressed policy issues such as rent control child labour labour laws harassment shared prosperity and gender empowerment The contributions in this volume theoretical as well as empirical reflect this range of issues in the broader context of interactions between markets governance and institutions in the process of economic development The broader roles of markets as key resource allocation mechanisms cannot be disputed But they need suitable governance structures and institutions working both as facilitators and as regulators Markets Governance and Institutions in the Process of Economic Development looks at the complex interactions between these three forces of development Divided into three distinct sections covering foundational and measurement issues associated with economic development and well being functioning and non functioning of the market in the context of development and structure and design issues relating to governance and institutions this book provides a clear focus for academics and economists considering development policy questions The Rise of the New Network Industries Juan Montero,Matthias Finger,2021-05-04 Cutting through the confusion around the nature and implications of digitalization this book explores the rise of the new digital networks how they affect traditional infrastructure and how they will eventually need to be regulated The authors examine how digitalization affects infrastructures in telecommunications transport and energy and how digital platforms establish themselves as a new network on top of and in addition to traditional ones Complex concepts are introduced through short and colorful stories about the founders of the most popular platforms Google Facebook Skype Uber etc and how they grew to positions of power drawing parallels with century old traditional network industries monopoly power AT T General Electric etc The authors argue that these digital platforms strongly interfere with traditional infrastructures that are heavily regulated and provide essential services for society meaning that digital platforms should be considered as a new and much more powerful type of infrastructure and will require regulation accordingly A global audience of policy makers public authorities consultants lawyers students and academics as well as anyone with an interest in these digital platforms will find this book enlightening and essential reading America Past and Present Robert A. To Educate American Indians Larry C. Skogen, 2024-02 To Educate American Indians presents the most complete versions of papers presented at the National Educational Association's Department of Indian Education meetings during a time when the debate about how best to civilize Indigenous populations dominated discussions. During this time two philosophies drove the conversation. The first an Enlightenment era influenced universalism held that through an educational alchemy American Indians would become productive Christianized Americans distinguishable from their white neighbors only by the color of their skin. Directly confronting the assimilationists universalism were the progressive educators who strongly influenced by the era's scientific racism held the notion that American Indians could never become fully assimilated. Despite these differing views a frightening ethnocentrism and an honor bound dedication to gifting civilization to Native students dominated the writings of educators from the NEA's Department of Indian Education. For a decade educators gathered at annual meetings and presented papers on how best to educate Native students. Though the NEA Proceedings published these papers strict guidelines often meant they were heavily edited before publication. In this volume Larry C. Skogen presents many of these unedited papers and gives them historical context for the years 1900 to 1904.
