Agendas Alternatives And Public Policies 2nd Edition:

Agendas, Alternatives, and Public Policies John W. Kingdon, 2011 How does an idea's time come? Participants on the inside of government. Outside of government but not just looking in. Processes: origins, rationality, incrementalism, and garbage cans. Problems: The policy primeval soup, The political stream, The policy window, and joining the streams. Wrapping things up. Some further reflections. Epilogue: Health care reform in the Clinton and Obama Administrations. Appendix on methods.

Agendas, Alternatives, and Public Policies (with an Epilogue on Health Care), Updated Edition John W. Kingdon, 2013-10-03 Kingdon's landmark work on agenda setting and policy formation is drawn from interview conducted with people in and around the U.S. federal government and from case studies, government documents, party platforms, press coverage, and public opinion surveys. While other works examine how policy issues are decided, Kingdon's book was the first to consider how issues got to be issues. This enduring work attempts to answer the questions: How do subjects come to officials' attention? How are the alternatives from which they choose generated? How is the governmental agenda set? Why does an idea's time come when it does? Longman is proud to announce that Agendas, Alternatives, and Public Policies has been reissued in this Longman Classics edition featuring a new epilogue: Health Care Reform from Clinton to Obama. Comparing the Clinton administration in 1993 with the Obama administration in 2009 and 2010, Kingdon analyses how agenda setting actors and alternatives affect public policy.

Learning to manage global environmental risks. 2. A functional analysis of social responses to climate change, ozone depletion, and acid rain Social Learning Group, 2001 This long-awaited two-volume book examines how the interplay of ideas and actions applied to environmental problems has laid the foundations for global environmental management. It looks at how ideas, interests, and institutions affect management practice; how management capabilities in other areas affect the ability to deal with specific environmental issues; and how learning affects society's approach to the global environment. The book focuses on efforts to deal with climate change, ozone depletion, and acid rain from 1957. The International Geophysical Year through 1992, the UN Conference on Environment and Development. The settings include Canada, Germany, Hungary, Japan, Mexico, the Netherlands, the former Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, the United States, and international environmental organizations. Topics include problem framing, agenda setting, issue attention, risk assessment, monitoring, option assessment, goal and strategy formulation, implementation, and evaluation. Volume 1 provides an overview of the project of global environmental management in general and of the three central environmental issues studied; it also contains the individual country studies. Volume 2 contains the management function studies and the book's conclusion. Authors in the set include Jeannine Cavender Bares, William C. Clark, Ellis Cowling, Nancy M. Dickson, Gerda Dinkelman, Rodney Dobell, Renate Ell, Adam Fenech, Alexander Ginzburg, Elena Goncharova, Peter Haas, Eva Hizsnyik, Michael Huber, Peter Hughes, Jill J. Ger, Marc Levy, Angela Liberatore, Diana Liverman, Justin Longo, David McCabe, Donald Munton, Elena Nikitina, Karen O'Brien, Edward Parson, Vladimir Pisarev, Ruud Pleune, Miranda Schreurs.

Regional organizations play an important role in mobilizing such action This Element provides novel insights into the conditions under which policy entrepreneurs can bring about transformative policy change in regional settings with a focus on the European Union EU and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN It finds that opportunity structures in the EU have been conducive to successful climate progressive policy entrepreneurship at several key junctures but not consistently In contrast the ASEAN governance context provides few access points for non elite interests making it fiendishly difficult for policy entrepreneurs to push for substantive policy change in the face of powerful domestic veto players This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core

School Reform, Corporate Style Dorothy Shipps,2006 Like other big city school systems Chicago s has been repeatedly reformed over the last century Yet its schools have fallen far short of citizens expectations and left a gap between the performances of white and minority students Many blame the educational establishment for resisting change Other critics argue that reform occurs too often still others claim it comes not often enough Dorothy Shipps reappraises the tumultuous history of educational progress in Chicago revealing that the persistent lack of improvement is due not to the extent but rather the type of reform Throughout the twentieth century managerial reorganizations initiated by the business community repeatedly altered the governance structure of schools as well as the relationships of teachers to children and parents but brought little improvement while other more promising reform models were either resisted or crowded out Shipps chronicles how Chicago s corporate actors led abetted or restrained nearly every attempt to transform the city s school system then asks whether schools might be better reformed by others To show why city schools have failed urban children so badly she traces Chicago s reform history over four political eras revealing how corporate power was instrumental in designing and revamping the system Her narrative encompasses the formative era of 1880 1930 when teachers unions moderated business plans previously unexplored business activism from 1930 to 1980 when civil rights dominated school reform and the decentralization of the 1980s She also covers the uneasy cooperation among business associations in the 1990s to install the mayor as head of the school system a governing regime now challenged by privatization advocates Business people may be too wedded to a stunted view of educators to forge a productive partnership for change Unionized teachers bridle at the second class status accorded them by managers If reform is to reach deeply into classrooms Shipps concludes it might well require a new coalition of teachers unions and parents to create a fresh agenda that supersedes corporate interests This study clearly shows that in Chicago as elsewhere urban schooling is intertwined with politics and power By reviewing more than a century of corporate efforts to make education work Shipps makes a strong case that it s high time to look elsewhere perhaps to educators themselves for new leadership

Practice for Social Justice Richard Hoefer, 2006 Party Politics and Social Welfare Martin Seeleib-Kaiser, Silke van Dyk, Martin Roggenkamp, 2008 Christian and Social Democratic parties have been the driving force behind welfare state developments post WWII This valuable book investigates whether continued party differences have contributed significantly to the design of social welfare in three conservative welfare states Austria Germany and the Netherlands since the mid 1970s Rather than assuming continued differences or convergence between parties the primary focus is to empirically analyze party positions with regard to employment and labour market policies social security and family policies as well as the implemented policies themselves The analysis demonstrates how changed interpretative patterns have led to a programmatic convergence amongst Christian Democrats and Social Democrats largely resulting in a liberal communitarian approach to the development of social welfare policies Providing a comprehensive approach to welfare state analysis and scrutinizing the
