The future of Nordic labour law: Facing the challenges of changing labour relations Jenum Hotvedt, Marianne, Videb  k Munkholm, Natalie, Arad  ttir Pind, Dagn  , Westreg  rd, Annamaria, 2020-10-09 Available online <https://pub.norden.org/temanord2020/534> Is labour law in the Nordic countries prepared to meet future challenges or is there a need for adjustments and renewal These questions form the backdrop for the analysis in this report The Nordic systems of labour law are built on a binary divide between employees and the self employed As a main rule employees are protected by labour law while self employed are not and the employer is responsible for complying with the legal framework If future labour relations make it harder to assess whether a worker is an employee or self employed and to decide who is the employer this might undermine the efficiency of labour law regulations The report analyzes the adaptability of the legal framework and points at strengths and weaknesses Furthermore the study discusses how the identified challenges can be addressed by suggesting avenues for legal development and reform The report is the concluding analysis of Pillar VI in the project Future of Work Opportunities and Challenges for the Nordic Models NFoW funded by the Nordic Council of Ministers

Digitalised Talent Management Sharna Wiblen, 2021-01-31 This book focuses on digitalised talent management the use of information technologies in talent management The book affords theoretically methodologically and empirically informed insights that are especially salient given the need for executives and organisations to balance the role of humans and technology while ensuring competitiveness in this interconnected and increasingly digital world In doing so the book will shape and contribute to academic and industry based conversations about the role of technological innovations in enabling organizations to transition towards digital ways of organising talent as well as the associated implications for the who what where when and why of talent management as stakeholders decide which aspects of talent management can be delegated to technology and those that require human agency This book adds value by assembling subject matter experts currently siloed within traditional research domains whilst also highlighting the complexity of managing talent By synthesising content from world leading academics who herald from various backgrounds the book will instigate shape and contribute to conversations about both the promises and perils of digitalised talent management and the extent to which judgments and decisions about an organisations most valuable asset it s talent should be delegated to non human agents This book will be of interest to researchers academics and students in the fields of talent management and organisational design especially those interested in digital ways of working managing and leading AWIS Magazine

,1999 Employee Retention in Change Management Processes. Practical Experience Michael Kurwan,2023-04-21

Document from the year 2023 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources Leadership language English abstract Retaining employees for the long term within the framework of change management processes is a challenging management task In change management processes a fundamental distinction must be made between incremental change management and radical change management While incremental change happens continuously and is integrated into everyday work radical change represents a strategic realignment of the company which is predominantly associated with staff reductions and is intended to change the corporate culture This is particularly true in the case of turnarounds where cost cutting programs play a crucial role in ensuring the long term survival of the company Employees are more willing to go along with incremental change also known as continuous improvement than with radical change as these could also be affected by staff reductions This stirs up fears among employees and therefore often leads to high turnover Therefore it is important for management to actively involve employees in the changes to empower them to act as change agents so that they can actively shape the change To do this it is crucial to identify the key personnel that a company cannot do without The management and key personnel are given the task of actively accompanying the company s employees on the journey of change so that the company can grow sustainably again from a lower level after the strategic realignment so that the remaining employees have a prosperous future Open communication and excellent transparency on the part of the management which should also act as a unit help to bring the employees along on the change journey in a targeted manner However experience has shown that 50% of all change management projects in the industry fail and 20% are implemented inadequately due to two crucial reasons namely power struggles within management and resistance from employees For this reason it is imperative that a company s management team select a leadership coalition of similarly rational members who also have sufficient empathy to successfully manage the change management process which must be done together with employees and should not be directed against them The guiding coalition should develop a common strategic vision and practice a participative way of working involving everyone since the goal of transformation is to change the thinking of employees and transformation can
