VAL STARTED GRADE 1 IN SEPTEMBER WITH THE CHILDREN WHO HAD BEEN IN HER KINDERGARTEN CLASS AND HAD ATTENDED PRESCHOOL WITH HER. Val participated in an early intervention program, was always encouraged to explore her environment, and is quite adventurous once she is familiar with her surroundings. Because Val has vision loss, she does not play much on the equipment in the playground. Some days she asks the teacher on playground supervision to help her get onto a swing, but at recess she usually invites a classmate to stand with her under a tree or to sit with her on a bench. One day, Val's teacher reminds the other children to play games at recess that include Val. Peter and Tamun pipe up that they like to play catch and that Val cannot play "because she can't see the ball." Peter says, "It just wouldn't be safe." On the way out to the playground later in the day, Tamun tells the teacher, "It's kind of boring spending recess with Val. She can't do much. And I don't like when she doesn't look at me. Why does she look at my ear when I'm talking to her?"
