Nikpour, 2024-02-06 Iran's prison system is a foundational institution of Iranian political modernity The Incarcerated Modern traces the transformation of Iran from a decentralized empire with few imprisoned persons at the turn of the twentieth century into a modern nation state with over a quarter million prisoners today In policing the line between bad criminal and good citizen the carceral system has shaped and reshaped Iranian understandings of citizenship freedom and political belonging Golnar Nikpour explores the interplay between the concrete space of the Iranian prison and the role of prisons in producing new public cultures and political languages in Iran From prison writings of 1920s leftist prisoners and communists of 1950s militant Islamists to paintings of 1970s revolutionary guerrillas and mapping projects organized by contemporary dissident prisoners carceral confinement has shaped modern Iranian political movements Today mass incarceration is a global phenomenon The Incarcerated Modern connects Iranian history to transnational carceral histories to illuminate the shared architectures economies and techniques of modern punishment Esmail Reza Baraheni, 2025-06-07 Esmail is a long poem Reza Baraheni wrote in 1981 for the death of his friend contemporary Iranian poet Esmail Shahrudi Shahrudi suffered a mental breakdown from which he never recovered after he was arrested and tortured by the former Shah of Iran In this poem Esmail also refers to Ishmael the son of the prophet Abraham and the story of his slaughter as well as to the soldiers of the Iran Iraq War The poem also has an anti war theme It is considered to be one of the most important literary works related to war and some consider it to be one of the greatest war poems in Persian literature The form of this poem is considered to be influenced by Beat Poet Allen Ginsberg's poem Howl Strange Times, My Dear Nahid Mozaffari, Ahmad

Karimi-Hakkak,2005 Despite war repression and censorship a renaissance has taken place in Iran over the last quarter century PEN have gathered selections that have lain completely unknown outside of Iran since 1979 from over 40 writers of three different generations The first book of its kind to appear in English this is a major anthology displaying the extraordinary scope and progress of Iranian literature

Literary Subterfuge and Contemporary Persian Fiction Mohammad Khorrami,2014-09-25 The main focus of Literary Subterfuge and Contemporary Persian Fiction is to identify components and elements which define Persian modernist fiction placing an emphasis on literary concepts and devices which provide the dynamics of the evolutionary trajectory of this modernism The question of who writes Iran refers to a contested area which goes beyond the discipline of literary criticism Non literary discourses have made every effort to impose their committed readings on literary texts they have even managed to exert influence on the process of literary creation In this process inevitably many works or segments of them and many concepts which do not lend themselves to such readings have been ignored at the same time many of them have been appropriated by these discourses Yet components and elements of Persian literary tradition have persistently engaged in this discursive confrontation mainly by insisting on literature s relative autonomy so that at least concepts such as conformity and subterfuge essential in terms of defining modern and modernist Persian fiction could be defined in a literary manner Proffering an alternative in terms of literary historiography this book supports a methodological approach that considers literary narratives which occur in the margins of dominant discourses and indeed promote non discursivity as the main writers of Persian modernist fiction It is an essential resource for scholars and researchers interested in Persian and comparative literature as well as Middle Eastern Studies more broadly

Lilith Reza Baraheni,2023-06 I think therefore I am other In Reza Baraheni s Lilith the mythological demon of the night gives a youthfully irreverent viscerally wise voice to the lucidity of the rebel Rather than renouncing freedom Lilith is outcast for her outspokenness and sensuality Sequestered to a place wherein freedom is crucially situated in the power and beauty of language and where that language is seated in stark opposition with the oppressive forms of authority that seek to make it mute Lilith can be seen as an allegorical take on the condition of the poet in exile Like the banned and persecuted author the demon refuses to yield to force and is resultantly a pariah Her body becomes the dumping ground of all power driven fantasies and the figure of the exile is invested with the projected fears and compulsions of the dominant society But it is the creative drive of language that permeates these pages A deeply lyrical and irreducibly subversive work over a little less than a hundred pages Lilith investigates the limits of a linguistic freedom via encounters between Lilith and a cast of fabled figures as the vulnerable courage of the poet is set against avatars of patriarchal oppression and authoritarian rule alike via the demon s dance with language In Lilith it is language that disrupts ordinary chronology language that allows for the shade of a dream life to dint the light of day harking back to an envisaging of poetry as music as ritual This is not language as an evocation of some distant golden age but as celebration An experiment in word alchemy a dance of grace and danger on the fault line of prose and song Lilith explores the reality making function of language to pinpoint the antagonistic faculty and political felicities of poetry itself The Routledge Handbook of
