Title

Social Entrepreneurship - Best practices and the role of technology

Introduction

This research proposal suggests an exploratory approach to collect the best practices of successful social entrepreneurial ventures. It tries to establish a reliable and easily accessible platform on which academicians and prospective social entrepreneurs can build on. It is intended that full life-cycle stages of entrepreneurship would be taken into consideration wherever possible. In addition, how social entrepreneurs are making the best use of technology will be investigated and documented.

Background and Rationale

Although the term 'Social Entrepreneurship' is relatively new, evidence shows that some great social entrepreneurs have always existed in the last two centuries. Altruism coupled with business sense has paved way for new opportunities for those who have entrepreneurial skills and want to work for the betterment of the society. Extraordinary people like Muhammad Yunus (Nobel Peace prize winner in 2006) came up with brilliant ideas and succeeded at creating revolutionary products and services dramatically improving human lives (Yousry 2007). As opposed to traditional non-profits, which are dependant on charitable donations and government subsidies, social enterprises are increasingly self-sufficient and sustainable (Boschee & McClurg 2003).

There are a number of definitions for Social Entrepreneurship at the moment giving broad and narrow meanings to it. Whatever they are, the underlying truth is that making a social impact is as important for social entrepreneurs as creating personal and shareholder value, if not more (Austin, Stevenson and Wei Skillern 2006). Social Entrepreneurship is definitely more than the business or economic entrepreneurship.

Unlike some commercial/economic organisations that only voice their social concerns through their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) departments, social enterprises treat their social and/or environmental responsibilities as the prime business cases. The CSR initiatives can change with time and circumstances, and range from simply organising donations by the employees to international social/voluntary projects involving millions of pounds, depending on the interests and financial status of the company. On the contrary, most social entrepreneurs get influenced by local problems with which they have first-hand experiences and decide to stick to them for a considerable time. They focus all of their resources and energies thinking about and analysing the social issues and offer direct and often speedy solutions to the people in need. Due to the stronger, quicker and more transparent impact the social

Neurocognitive Profiling of Children with Specific or Comorbid Reading Disabilities Bartholomeus J.A. de Groot, 2015-03-03 This study concerns the question whether different reading related neurocognitive profiles can be observed for reading proficiency based groups of children who attend the upper levels of Dutch primary education Besides distinguishing between normal to good reading children and children with Reading Disabilities RD subgroups are discerned for two frequently reported comorbidities of RD i.e. Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder ADHD and Specific Language Impairment SLI The research of this PhD thesis is organized into two empirical sections on different branches of reading related neurocognitive research which are elaborated in five studies The first section focuses on the cognitive processes of phonemic awareness and rapid automatized naming and the first study specifically addresses the question as to how the severity of RD affects the relative importance of these processes Additionally it is investigated how this works out for above average and excellent readers Involving the same processes the second and third study focus on the issue of comorbidity with SLI and ADHD The second section contains the fourth and fifth study which investigate the relatively novel link between word reading and two aspects of visual attention i.e. selective attention and orienting of attention In the general discussion the employed working model of reading is supplied with empirically based estimates of the neurocognitive effect sizes A main conclusion of the present study is that the addition of visual attention measurements to a phonological reading model provides an enhanced understanding of the cognitive basis of word reading and offers interesting new perspectives on differential diagnostic procedures and treatment planning

The splendour of power J.A.W. Nicolay, 2014-01-01 From the 5th to the 7th century AD the southern North Sea area functioned as an important cultural and political bridge linking two power blocks the late Roman Empire and its Frankish successor kingdom to the south and the Scandinavian kingdoms to the north This book examines how the region's intermediary position is reflected in the jewellery and other ornaments of gold and silver found along the southern North Sea coasts and how it relates to the formation of kingdoms and the expression of group identity after the collapse of the West Roman Empire The book first discusses the history of earlier research into kingship around the southern North Sea and this is followed by a description of the individual research regions the northern and western Netherlands northern Germany and southeast England After presenting the valuables of gold and silver from graves hoards and settlement sites with their dating and contextual evidence in an extensive catalogue the author examines how such items circulated between and within early medieval societies were transformed into symbols expressing regional or supraregional identities and eventually ended up in the ground The various research themes come together in the synthesis in which elite networks around the southern North

Sea are reconstructed and the expression of ethnic or other group identities among the members of such networks is considered Finally in an epilogue the finds from the North Sea region are confronted with the nature and composition of the Staffordshire hoard For the first time not only presenting but also interpreting the superb collection of valuables from the southern North Sea area as a whole this book makes compulsive reading for anyone interested in the fascinating world of early medieval Europe Paul's Anthropology in Context Geurt Hendrik van Kooten,2008 Expanded version of a collection of essays published elsewhere previously between 2005 and 2008 plus one new essay published here for the first time work of Stanley Hauerwas it is through enacting the truth in a world of lies through seeking peace in a world of violence that witnesses show who God is who we are and what the world is like The Necessity of Witness is a study of Hauerwas and his fascinating but complex understanding of witness Ariaan W Baan argues that Hauerwas s approach makes a significant contribution to current debates in systematic theology on the relation between truth and life Reading Hauerwas can be a precarious adventure His rhetoric is overwhelming but his argument is not always crystal clear and carefully formulated With the help of semiotic and philosophical analysis and biblical exegesis Baan articulates Hauerwas s intuitions fills some of the gaps in his argumentation and discloses hidden biases The results of this analysis sometimes surprise Baan notes that unexpected pericopes in Scripture such as Isaiah and Revelation support Hauerwas s account of witness and concludes that his work offers insight into how in our late modern society such diverse groups as martyrs and pop stars offer implicit witness through their lives The Economist ,2000 Annual Report Rijksuniversiteit Limburg.
