2.1 Preliminaries

The major objective of this chapter is to apply the sociolinguistic approach to the Hardy's literary works: Far From the Madding Crowd, The Return of the Native, The Mayor of Casterbridge, Tess of the D'Urbervilles and Jude the Obscure. This chapter is aimed at analysing the varied linguistic features of the characters' speech in the selected novels. The features are phonological, morphological and syntactic in nature. In addition it investigates dialect of their speech, i.e. whether it correlates between the way Hardy's characters use language and their social background which is Hardy's motivation behind the use of such linguistic variation. The following data is the expansion of the subject. It is useful to know the core of this research.

One of the intriguing and insufficiently understood features of Biblical Hebrew is the use of an infinitive form alongside a finite verb of the same root The function of this construction has generally been understood as serving to provide some kind of emphasis However neither translations nor grammars are consistently able to explain what is being emphasized by the use of this construction This volume which is a revision of the author's Ph D dissertation at the Johns Hopkins University 2006 examines the tautological infinitive construction in Classical Biblical Hebrew that is the Hebrew written during the First Temple Period more or less equivalent to the material in Genesis 2 Kings excluding P in order to give a coherent and consistent explanation of its function In a final chapter Kim discusses the use of the tautological infinitive in Classical Biblical Hebrew in relation to its use in non Classical biblical texts and Semitic languages in order to set it in a broader context
