China's rapid growth is now a driving force in the global economy and is achieving unprecedented rates of poverty reduction. However, China also faces a number of sustainability and emerging challenges associated with rapid growth, such as growing regional disparities in terms of per capita income and social economic development, sustainable resource development and issues related to regional and global economic integration. In addition, rapid economic growth has also brought about major challenges such as resource shortages, ecological and environmental destruction, land degradation and frequent disasters. This book presents the authors' reflections

Chinese Heritage Sites and their Audiences Rouran Zhang, 2020-03-17 Chinese Heritage Sites and their Audiences provides a Chinese perspective on tourists' relationship to heritage. Contributing to ongoing debates within heritage and tourism studies, the book offers insights into how and why visitors engage with such sites. Drawing on interviews with domestic tourists, local residents, and heritage officials at the World Heritage sites of West Lake Xidi and Hongcun, Zhang argues that tourists have agency when they visit heritage sites: they are doing cultural, social, and emotional work whilst also negotiating cultural meanings. Providing an examination of the complex interactions between locals and tourists, the author then considers how tourists navigate and interpret heritage sites. Finally, Zhang examines whether the government or locally controlled tourism enterprises are more effective in facilitating meaningful cultural interaction between tourists and locals. Overall, the book demonstrates the interrelation between tourism and heritage and the tensions that are created when the ways in which sites are used differ from the expectations of UNESCO and national or regional site managers. Chinese Heritage Sites and their Audiences pays particular attention to ongoing debates about heritage performances, the importance of emotions, and the agency of tourists and will thus appeal to academics and students engaged in the study of heritage, tourism, landscape, architecture, and anthropology.

Cultural Heritage Politics in China Tami Blumenfeld, Helaine Silverman, 2013-05-14 This volume explores China's cultural heritage ideology and policies from three interrelated perspectives: the State and World Heritage, tourism, cultural heritage, tourism at undesignated sites, and the cultural politics of museums and collections. Something of a cultural heritage designation craze is happening in China. This is new within even the last five to ten years. Officials at many levels now see heritage preservation as a means for commoditizing their regions. They are devoting new resources and attention to national and international heritage designations Thus addressing cultural heritage politics in a nation dedicated to designation is an important project particularly in the context of a rapidly growing economy This volume is also important because it addresses a very wide range of cultural heritage providing an excellent sample of case studies historic vernacular urban environments ethnic tourism scenic tourism pilgrimage as tourism tourism and economic development museums border heritage underwater remains and the actual governance and management of the sites This volume is an outstanding introduction to cultural heritage issues in China while contributing to Chinese studies for those with greater knowledge of the area China's 23 World Heritage Sites Xianggang Zhongguo lü you chu ban she,2000 People's Republic of China Year-book ,2006 CHINA - Past and Present Ruby Tsao,Chinese American Forum,2019 China is increasingly important on the world scene yet has remained misunderstood in the West This book is written for English language readers including my ABC American Born Chinese children for understanding of China its history and culture and as a guide to travels in China with a list of UNESCO World Heritage sites Chinese culture is a culture of peace In history China had been at the receiving end of aggression especially from Japan Neither Chinese Nationalists or Communists sought war reparations from Japan for loss of life and property damages Since the end of WWII China has pursued a good neighbor policy with Japan Never ending tit for tat hostility is counter productive to nurture long lasting peace To learn from history we must not forget To forget is to risk repeating history To give English language readers a basic understanding of China an introductory guide and an outline of history provide some background information of China and its relations with the outside world Shortly after visiting the Flying Tiger Museum in Chongqing I heard the news of Anna Chennault s passing in March 2018 60 years after General Chennault s death in 1958 To refresh the memory of the war time hero and the Flying Tigers he led I dedicated a special section to tell the story of Claire Chennault and the Flying Tigers who made a great contribution in the war with Japan My father was a general in Republic of China Nationalist army during the war I have included my family experiences in the war following war movements in Hubei Hunan Chongqing Guangzhou and Taiwan These places have undergone tremendous changes in the last 40 years I am impressed with the transformation from war torn China China is rich in history culture and natural beauty As a happy ending for this book I have included reports of my visits to China in recent years to share with readers A list of 53 UNESCO World Heritage sites is provided To help readers in the pronunciation of Chinese names and places a guide to Chinese pinyin used in Microsoft Word is provided Some uncommon names in Chinese are included for clarification I thank my husband Professor George Tsao for his help to place photos in the text and my daughter Helen Tsao for the design of the book The purpose of this book is not to perpetuate grievances but to learn from history Japanese people are peace loving just like people all over the world They were only being loyal to Emperor Hirohito who had the ambition to conquer Asia The current emperor Akihito has time and again expressed deep remorse over the war We must separate peace loving Japanese from the right wing extremists We have learned from history that peace loving people were often led to the
