Interviewing For Social Scientists:

Interviewing for Social Scientists Hilary Arksey, Peter T Knight, 1999-10-25 This is an excellent book It will be required reading on my methods courses Nigel Fielding University of Surrey Students at postgraduate and increasingly at undergraduate level are required to undertake research projects and interviewing is the most frequently used research method This book provides a comprehensive and authoritative introduction to interviewing It covers all the issues that arise in interview work theories of interviewing design application and interpretation Richly illustrated with relevant examples each chapter includes handy statements of advantages and disadvantages of the approaches discussed Interviewing for Social Scientists Hilary Arksey, 1999 Recording Oral History Valerie Raleigh Yow, 1994-02-14 With extensive examples from both historical and social science literature this book is a practical guide to methods of recording oral history The author provides suggestions on a range of techniques from developing a written interview guide and using tape recorders to asking probing questions during in depth interviews and editing transcriptions She also covers the ethical and legal issues involved in conducting life history interviews and elaborates on three different types of oral history projects community studies biographies and family histories The Social Scientist's Soapbox Karen Sternheimer, 2017-07-31 Whether your goal is to share little known or misunderstood information work to create policy changes or raise awareness about a pressing social issue this book will help you start communicating with the public and share your research with a broader audience Using examples from social scientists who have successfully navigated the public sphere as well as firsthand accounts of the ups and downs of the writing publishing and promoting process The Social Scientist's Soapbox Adventures in Writing Public Sociology presents readers with a step by step guide to get started stay motivated and complete both large and small writing projects for public audiences Now more than ever social scientists need to share our ideas with the public as misinformation disinformation and outright lies have filtered into the public discourse and policymaking

Qualitative Analysis for Social Scientists Anselm L. Strauss, 1987-06-26 The teaching of qualitative analysis in the social sciences is rarely undertaken in a structured way This handbook is designed to remedy that and to present students and researchers with a systematic method for interpreting qualitative data whether derived from interviews field notes or documentary materials The special emphasis of the book is on how to develop theory through qualitative analysis The reader is provided with the tools for doing qualitative analysis such as codes memos memo sequences theoretical sampling and comparative analysis and diagrams all of which are abundantly illustrated by actual examples drawn from the author's own varied qualitative research and research consultations as well as from his research seminars Many of the procedural discussions are concluded with rules of thumb that can usefully guide the researchers analytic operations The difficulties that beginners encounter when doing qualitative analysis and the kinds of persistent questions they raise are also discussed as is the problem of how to integrate analyses In addition there is a chapter on the teaching of qualitative analysis and the giving of useful advice during research consultations and there is a discussion of the preparation of material for publication The book has been written not only for sociologists but for all researchers in the social sciences and in such fields as education public health nursing and administration who employ qualitative methods in their work Use of Government Publications by Social Scientists Peter Hernon,1979 Monograph on an information user study of information needs for official publications in USA libraries based on results from social sciences teacher and library survey questionnaires analyses reasons for use or non use of government publications collection development information retrieval time factors weeding of unused materials and specialized classification schemes and compares findings to previous research Bibliography pp 161 to 163 and statistical tables Human Terrain System Christopher J. Sims,2018-04-19 To avoid the footpaths which may have been mined with improvised explosive devices IEDs Ryan Evans a U S federal civilian was walking across a wheat field in Babaji Helmand Province in the spring of 2011 Evans was attached to the Royal Highland Fusiliers 2 Scots C Company a heavy infantry patrol tasked with providing security in the vicinity Begun 2 years earlier the Helmand Food Zone Program was a form of development intervention which offered subsidies seed and fertilizers to farmers who replaced lucrative opium cultivation from poppies with growing and harvesting wheat and vegetable crops Babaji had been in the control of insurgents until a few months earlier and had not received any assistance from the program during the previous year consequently there were tensions between the community and British forces As Evans and the patrol emerged from the field an Afghan man sitting nearby clearly irate shouted in Pashto that the British soldiers had wanted the farmer to grow wheat instead of poppy and then the same British soldiers walked through their fields At the immediate level the encounter demonstrated the direct link between conflict food security and local trade but conflict has many interrelated and mutual dependencies such that the anecdote is instructive on myriad broader milieus Where for example is the tipping point that makes a civilian value creating an expression of discontent to a heavily armed patrol above his immediate physical security Do livelihoods and cultures affect military strategies Are there interdependencies between insurgencies societies and economies Does the language of war require a sociological grammar in order to be understood Armed conflict is a human enterprise such that by extension understanding of the human dimension in a given area of operations should be thought integral to planning successful operations Information Needs of Social Scientists Margaret Slater,1989 Social Scientists and Farm Politics in the Age of Roosevelt Richard Stewart Kirkendall,1966 Originated in a seminar at the University of Wisconsin and emerged first as a dissertation Bibliography p 331 349 Qualitative Data Analysis Ian Dey,2003-09-02 Qualitative Data Analysis shows that learning how to analyse qualitative data by computer can be fun Written in a stimulating style with examples drawn mainly from every day life and contemporary humour it should appeal to a wide audience Third Cultural Networks of Philippine Physical, Life, and Social Scientists Florence Elizabeth McCarthy,1972 The Social Scientist in American Industry Matthew Radom,1970 Study of employees attitudes among social sciences personnel in industrial enterprises in the
