

An aerial photograph of a forest fire. Thick, dark smoke rises from the ground in several places, partially obscuring the trees below. The smoke is most prominent on the left side of the image, with smaller plumes on the right. The ground is a mix of dark green trees and lighter brown areas where the fire has burned or is burning.

Cultural Trauma And Collective Identity:

Cultural Trauma and Collective Identity Jeffrey C. Alexander, Ron Eyerman, Bernard Giesen, Neil J. Smelser, Piotr Sztompka, 2004-03-22 In this collaboratively authored work five distinguished sociologists develop an ambitious theoretical model of cultural trauma and on this basis build a new understanding of how social groups interact with emotion to create new and binding understandings of social responsibility Looking at the meaning making process as an open ended social dialogue in which strikingly different social narratives vie for influence they outline a strongly constructivist approach to trauma and apply this theoretical model in a series of extensive case studies including the Nazi Holocaust slavery in the United States and September 11 2001

Cultural Trauma and Collective Identity Jeffrey C. Alexander, 2004 Five sociologists develop a theoretical model of cultural trauma build a new understanding of how social groups interact with emotion to create new binding understandings of social responsibility

Memory, Trauma, and Identity Ron Eyerman, 2019-04-09 This volume brings together Ron Eyerman's most important interventions in the field of cultural trauma and offers an accessible entry point into the origins and development of this theory and a framework of an analysis that has now achieved the status of a research paradigm This collection of disparate essays published between 2004 and 2018 coheres around an original introduction that not only provides a historical overview of cultural trauma but is also an important theoretical contribution to cultural trauma and collective identity in its own right The Afterword from esteemed sociologist Eric Woods connects the essays and explores their significance for the broader fields of sociology behavioral science and trauma studies

Cultural Trauma Ron Eyerman, 2001-12-13 In this book Ron Eyerman explores the formation of the African American identity through the theory of cultural trauma The trauma in question is slavery not as an institution or as personal experience but as collective memory a pervasive remembrance that grounded a people's sense of itself Combining a broad narrative sweep with more detailed studies of important events and individuals Eyerman reaches from Emancipation through the Harlem Renaissance the Depression the New Deal and the Second World War to the Civil Rights movement and beyond He offers insights into the intellectual and generational conflicts of identity formation which have a truly universal significance as well as providing a compelling account of the birth of African American identity Anyone interested in questions of assimilation multiculturalism and postcolonialism will find this book indispensable

British Identity in World War I Mary K. Laurents, 2020-12-10 This book analyzes the development of the Lost Generation narrative following the First World War The author examines narratives that illustrate the fracture of upper class identity including well known examples of the Lost Generation Robert Graves Siegfried Sassoon and Vera Brittain as well as other less typical cases George Mallory and JRR Tolkien to demonstrate the effects of the First World War on British society culture and politics

Cultural Memories of Origin Frank Wilker, 2017 Cultural Memories of Origin focuses on how the second maritime leg of the African slave trade commonly referred to as the Middle Passage is represented in select literary and artistic works of African American culture The book analyses several discursive aesthetic and political shifts in the memory production about the transatlantic slave trade and discusses their ramifications for the construction of black identity in the U.S. Given the deracinating nature that the middle passage experience had on African subjects as well as the representational difficulties in portraying this rupture the book's analytical framework incorporates theories of trauma By addressing the productive contrast and the methodological differences that exist in between what is in general deemed historical scholarship on the one hand and cultural memory on the other the book contributes to the ongoing discussion about the possibility of an involuntary inheritability of traumatic events

The Burden of Remembering Ene Kõresaar, E. Lauk, K. Kuutma, 2009 This is a book that focuses on two major turning points in the 20th century history that determine the formation of that century as a realm of memory the Second World War and the collapse of Communist regimes and ideology in Europe These two events are revisited from the point of view of transdisciplinary memory studies to demonstrate the interplay of continuance and discontinuance of political and cultural regimes of memory of these ruptures as well as their interconnections in present day discourses and practices of remembering and forgetting The memory practices and models of the Second World War are comparatively interrelated with the practices of remembering and interpreting the realities of the period after the fall of Communism in Europe Journal of Anthropological Research ,1973 Balkanistica ,1974 Handbook of Contemporary European Social Theory Gerard Delanty,2006-09 This innovative publication maps out the broad and interdisciplinary field of contemporary European social theory It covers sociological theory the wider theoretical traditions in the social sciences including cultural and political theory anthropological theory social philosophy and social thought in the broadest sense of the term This volume surveys the classical heritage the major national traditions and the fate of social theory in a post national and post disciplinary era It also identifies what is distinctive about European social theory in terms of themes and traditions It is divided into five parts disciplinary traditions national traditions major schools key themes and the reception of European social theory in American and Asia Thirty five contributors from nineteen countries across Europe Russia the Americas and Asian Pacific have been commissioned to utilize the most up to date research available to provide a critical international analysis of their area of expertise Overall this is an indispensable book for students teachers and researchers in sociology cultural studies politics philosophy and human geography and will set the tone for future research in the social sciences Jewish Identity in Western Pop Culture Jon Stratton,2008-05-15 This book looks at the post Holocaust experience with emphasis on aspects of its impact on popular culture
