Culture and Reflexivity in Systemic Psychotherapy Inga-Britt Krause, 2018-03-21 The therapeutic relationship is increasingly becoming a central topic in systemic psychotherapy and cross cultural thinking Here experienced systemic psychotherapists offer their reflections and thoughts on the issues of race culture and ethnicity in the therapeutic relationship The aim is to develop this area of systemic practice to place culture squarely at the centre of all systemic psychotherapy practice as a model for all psychotherapy practice to encourage both trainees and experienced systemic psychotherapists to pay attention to race culture and ethnicity as central issues in their own and their clients identities and to inform researchers who use qualitative research techniques such as ethnography This book moves the issues of culture race and equity into the centre of psychotherapeutic practice including that which involves therapeutic encounters across culture racial and ethnic divides It develops an approach to cultural transference and demonstrates that thinking about culture race and ethnicity does not belong at the margin

Culture and Reflexivity in Systemic Psychotherapy

Inga-Britt Krause, 2012 This book moves the issues of culture race and equity into the centre of psychotherapeutic practice including that which involves therapeutic encounters across culture racial and ethnic divides It develops an approach to cultural transference and demonstrates that thinking about culture race and ethnicity does not belong at the margin A number of well known thinkers and practitioners in the systemic field engage with these issues in the therapeutic relationship The therapeutic relationship is increasingly becoming a central topic in systemic psychotherapy and cross cultural thinking By asking experienced systemic psychotherapist to offer their reflections and thoughts on this topic the book has four aims 1 to develop this area of systemic practice 2 to place culture squarely at the centre of all systemic psychotherapy practice as a model for all psychotherapy practice 3 to encourage both trainees and experienced systemic psychotherapists to pay attention to race culture and ethnicity as issues in their own and their clients identities and 4 to inform researchers who use qualitative research techniques such as ethnography Book Jacket

Ethical and Aesthetic Explorations of Systemic Practice Pietro Barbetta, Maria Esther Cavagnis, Inga-Britt Krause, Umberta Telfener, 2022-06-15 In Ethical and Aesthetic Explorations of Systemic Practice the four co authors come together to rhizomatically consider how systemic theories can be reinvigorated in the present day This fascinating book uses the ideas and work of renowned anthropologist Gregory Bateson as a springboard from which to examine the fundamental tenets of systemic theory and practice as well as looking to the work of Deleuze Guattari Maturana Varela and von Foerster Including contributions from a range of renowned therapists each chapter examines the guiding principles from a critical perspective asking questions around the ontology of the therapeutic encounter and the technique of therapy itself This revivifying volume will be of interest to systemic professionals and those looking at how the systemic community can continue to grow and evolve

New Horizons in Systemic Practice with Adults Tone Grover, Siv Merete Myra, Ulf Axberg, 2023-08-15 This book explores the various applications of systemic understanding in practice Each chapter covers diverse working contexts and existential life dilemmas tackling subjects such as systemic work with individuals single session family therapy experiences of adult longing the therapeutic relationship as a form of love working systemically with experiences of marginalisation cultural difference and diversity the integration of recent neuroscience developments with systemic therapy with couples the role of forgiveness and the spiritual dimension in therapy Throughout this book promotes hope by presenting new horizons and providing room for reflection on uncertainty change opportunities inter connections and differences Theoretical expansion of these existential issues lies both at the heart of systemic work and on the leading edge of research and theory practice linking showing how the integration of research with new developments across the broader fields of psychotherapy and counselling can be held within a systemic relational umbrella Innovations in the Reflecting Process Harlene Anderson, Per Jensen, 2018-03-26 The passion to continually be on the move to seek new understanding is a characteristic of the field of family therapy and systemic thinking over the last forty years Many professionals have moved around more or less freely in and out of this field Some have made footprints that will last for a long time One of these is Tom Andersen From a position as professor in social psychiatry at the University of Tromsø in northern Norway he has moved around the world participating with other professionals in their efforts to develop their work and seek wider horizons Harlene Anderson and Per Jensen from the Preface The Dialogical Therapist Paolo Bertrando, 2018 Several good books exist about systemic understanding in therapy and a few about dialogic understanding However none try to bridge the gap between these two world views which have some similarities but also a whole array of differences This book is an attempt to find a bridge According to systemic theory we exist only in and because of the network of relationships we are embedded in In dialogic theory we inhabit different worlds and we need dialogue we need engaging in that hard struggle that is proper dialogue in order to make them communicate with each other Putting these different views together poses problems but provides a good dialogic exercise too The author found it increasingly necessary as he felt more and more uncomfortable with the more conventional versions of Batesonian systemic wisdom he had adopted in previous years At the same time he did not feel convinced by some of the new ideas about dialogue where one was compelled to get rid of everything one thought valuable in systemic understanding Provided by publisher Systems-Centered Practice Yvonne M. Agazarian, 2020-06-16 Systems Centered Practice presents a series of papers that trace the development of the theory of living human systems between 1987 and 2002 As the theory develops so do the methods and techniques that put it into practice The book also describes in detail the connection between the hierarchy of defence modification and the specific phases of system development that determine readiness for change The papers in this volume contribute to our knowledge of the permeability of the boundaries between clinical and social psychology through the investigation of living human systems and of systems centered group and individual therapy The author's considerable body of work constitutes a blend of creativity and learning of the highest order Systemic Therapy Jürgen Hargens, 1988 INNOVATIONS IN THE REFLECTING PROCESS HARLENE ANDERSON, 2019-06-14
