The Spiderwick Chronicles

Author Program In-depth Interview Insights Beyond the Movie

The Spiderwick Chronicles creators Holly Black and Tony DiTerlizzi, interviewed in their studios in Amherst, MA on October 29, 2004.

TEACHINGBOOKS: The Spiderwick Chronicles are extremely popular, and they have created quite a following among readers — how do you account for this, given the relatively dark nature of the material?

TONY DITERLIZZI: I think any good faerie tale, probably the most well-loved and well-known faerie tales, are extremely dark. I think that's what makes them so good. Holly and I really strived hard to imbue that sense of darkness into The Spiderwick Chronicles. The faeries and the faerie folk in Spiderwick are true to real folklore. They're not Tinkerbell-type characters. They act as the faeries in folklore do. The ogre is not a cartoon. He's a real ogre.

As storytellers, our responsibility was not to terrify, but to communicate the sense of impending danger that these kids felt, and to make readers question if the characters were going to get out of danger. After all, we're talking about two nine-year-olds and a 13-year-old, and they're facing very real challenges. But so did Hansel and Gretel. So did the kids in Peter Pan. For example, in the original text Wendy is shot with an arrow when they fly into Neverland. But that's what we love...that's the stuff. You want to be thinking, "Oh my God, they are not going to make it out of this." In great stories — from comic books to kid's books to movies — there's always that sense of "there is no way they're going to get out of this mess." And that's what we tried to do with Spiderwick.

HOLLY BLACK: Faerie tales are very dark in many ways. There's a lot of destruction and death and darkness in some of the classic faerie tales. And I don't think that there's necessarily more than that in The Spiderwick Chronicles.

I got this letter from a grandmother who was upset because the goblins in Book Two of The Spiderwick Chronicles were roasting a cat, and she thought this was the worst. She said, "This is horrible! How could you have written this? I can't give this to my child. You're a terrible person for writing this." And I wrote back to tell her that the point is that creatures in and of themselves aren't bad — they have to do something bad. Goblins aren't bad because they look bad. Villainous things aren't villainous because they wear dark capes and carry big swords and have horns and hooves and glowing red eyes. They're bad because they do bad things. And that means that in a book where people are confronting some kind of dark thing, that thing actually has to do something frightening, or bad — otherwise it isn't bad. And I think that is really important, because thinking things that only look bad ARE bad is a terrible and frightening message.

TEACHINGBOOKS: The children in The Spiderwick Chronicles face real-life issues as well as the faerie tale sort. Was this an important element for you?
