

Acquisition Aspects	Behaviourist Perspective	Innatist Perspective	Interactionist Perspective
Linguistic Focus	Verbal behaviors (not analyzed per se): words, utterances of child and people in social environment	Child's syntax	Conversations between child and caregiver; focus on caregiver speech
Process of acquisition	Modeling, imitation, practice, and selective reinforcement of correct form	Hypothesis testing and creative construction of syntactic rules using LAD (an innate, biological language acquisition device)	Acquisition emerges from communication; acts scaffolded by caregivers
Role of child	Secondary role: imitator and responder to environmental shaping	Primary role: equipped with biological LAD, child plays major role in acquisition	Important role in interaction, taking more control as language acquisition advances
Role of social environment	Primary role: parental modeling and reinforcement are major factors promoting language acquisition	Minor role: language used by others merely triggers LAD	Important role in interaction, especially in early years when caregivers modify input and carry much of conversational load

Implications of First Language Acquisition for Second Language Learning Ely J. Marquez,1972 Digital Tools in the EFL Classroom. Teaching English as a Foreign Language ,2022-03-04 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2021 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Miscellaneous grade 2 7 University of Dortmund language English abstract This thesis raises the questions why we need digitalization what it can offer and analyses how it can be implemented in the classroom In order to answer this question thoroughly and analyse the software in great detail the first chapter of this thesis lays the theoretical basis for some didactic theories The second chapter provides insights on digitalization in context with multiliteracies and the SAMR model In chapter three the analyzation of the software H5P answers the initially raised questions The COVID 19 pandemic put the spotlight to schools and the school system in general After 18 months of homeschooling and remote education it became obvious that digitalization had not reached the classroom before and very little progress has been achieved until now Even though theoretically digital tools were available it lacked on a working infrastructure in schools in the sense of Wi Fi hardware or well trained teachers Whether it is for the missing devices as a result of the paperwork to apply for the Digitalpakt Schule because of the missing reasons to deal with digitalization in schools as such or because the teachers are not trained enough to use them digitalization in schools did not seem necessary nor wanted and that was no subject to change for a long time In the last few years loads of books training courses for teachers congresses blogs and tweets appeared and at least theoretically digitalization reached schools and classrooms It seems that digitalization in the English language classroom has finally reached teacher education programs at universities and raises a whole new generation of teachers Not only future teachers but also current ones should be keen to know why years ago schools stopped to keep up with digitalization why it needs to be implemented in schools what it offers where its limitations are and how traditional teaching methods can be modified into digital settings Psychology of Language and Learning O. Hobart Mowrer, 2013-06-29 There are very few psychologists living today who have contributed more to the advancement of psychology in general and to the psychology of language and thought in particular than O Hobart Mowrer It would indeed be ludicrous to attempt to list the many and varied accomplishments and contributions that Dr Mowrer has made to his profession over the years Even the selected essays that are in this volume can only suggest a modicum of his remarkable vital and ongoing contribution to the psychology of language and thought Further more the chapters in this book which were published over a period of some twenty five years clearly illustrate that Dr Mowrer was concerned not only with basic research but that he also had an interest in its application These chapters also point to the fact that although Dr Mowrer's orientation was primarily that of a behaviorist at the onset his constant attempts to revise knowledge in this field and broaden its scope make it virtually impossible for us to classify him as a behaviorist in the narrow meaning of that term The chapter on mental imagery for example written only a few years ago serves to illustrate this point In addition the Autism Theory of Speech Development see Chapter 4 one of Dr The Crosscultural, Language, and Academic Development Handbook Lynne T. Díaz-Rico, Kathryn Z. Weed, 1995 Language Learning Practices with Deaf Children Patricia L. McAnally, Susan Rose, Stephen Patrick Quigley, 2004 This text provides future and practicing teachers of deaf children with basic theoretical and research knowledge as well as specific principles and practices for fostering the development of language and reading In this third edition of Language Learning Practices with Deaf Children the authors have added a section on language assessment in Chapter 7 addressing high stakes or large scale testing and a new chapter on special programs including ASL/English programs for children from multicultural homes and technology for language learning An Appendix has been added with an annotated list of Internet Web sites that may be useful to teachers parents and preservice teachers as well as others interested in language practices with children who are deaf Language Learning Practices with Deaf Children describes the variety of language development theories and practices that are used with deaf children without advocating any particular approach Chapters 1 and 2 cover some of the accepted facts and known problems of language acquisition and instruction with hearing and with deaf children Implications for language development in deaf children are discussed Chapter 3 is a history of instructional practices in language development with deaf children to show continuity between present and past practices and to illustrate the recurring cycles of major language development approaches with deaf children Chapters 4 5 and 8 detail the major approaches of the present time natural methods structural methods and American Sign Language English as a second language ASL/ESL as well as specialized programs for children from multicultural homes and technology as part of language learning Chapter 6 discusses reading and writing and Chapter 7 focuses on the assessment of language and progress monitoring of language development among school aged children Finally Chapter 9 offers some reflection on the material in the book     An Integrated Approach to Early Literacy Susan Mandel Glazer,Eileen M. Burke,1994 A holistic approach to language learning from a developmental point of view Text covers three main areas the characteristics of human development theories that guide the caregiver to create the appropriate environments for learning and practical strategies that encourage growth in reading speaking listening and writing courses in emergent literacy reading in early childhood education early childhood language arts     Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,1998     Foundations of Bilingual Education and Bilingualism Colin Baker,1996 This book provides a comprehensive introduction to bilingualism and bilingual education In a straightforward style it discusses bilingualism at individual language minority group and national levels Written as a foundational textbook for students and teachers it provides a detailed and integrated map of bilingualism and bilingual education
