Urban Eco-Communities in Australia Liam Cooper, Hans A. Baer, 2018-06-28 This book offers one of the first detailed anthropological studies of emergent ecotopianism in urban contexts Engaging directly with debates on urbanisation sustainability and utopia it presents two detailed ethnographic case studies of inner urban Australian eco communities in Adelaide and Melbourne These novel responses to the ecological crisis real social laboratories that attempt to manifest a vision of the eco city in microcosm offer substantial new insights into the concept and creation of sustainable urban communities their attempts to cultivate ways of living that are socially and ecologically nourishing and their often fraught relationship to the capitalist city beyond These studies also suggest the opportunities and limitations of moving beyond demonstration projects towards wider urban transformation as well as exposing the problems of accessibility and affordability that thwart further urban eco interventions and the ways that existing projects can exacerbate issues of gentrification and privilege in a socially polarised city Amidst the challenges of the capitalist city climate change and ecological crisis this book offers vital lessons on the potential of urban sustainability in future cities

Encyclopedia of World Problems and Human Potential: Actions, strategies, solutions ,1994 Sustainable Community Graham Stuart Meltzer,2005 This book is about the previously unsubstantiated link between sustainability and community It is based on a ten year investigation of cohousing a popular new type of housing project that directly addresses both environmental degradation and social disintegration The book argues that social and environmental sustainability are inexorably linked Whilst the existence of this link is generally recognised there is little existing literature that offers empirical evidence to prove it In doing so the book uses case study data including 120 photographs 50 tables and 30 diagrams from twelve recent cohousing developments in Canada the USA New Zealand Australia and Japan concrete examples of working sustainable communities The book comprises two parts Part One introduces the twelve cohousing communities projects with distinct attributes of their own that highlight their diversity and cultural specificity Each is richly illustrated with photographs taken by the author who in addition to being an architect and scholar is a commercial photographer Part Two offers detailed comparative analysis based on substantive quantitative and qualitative data The strands of the analysis are eventually brought together in a holistic or ecological model the Community Empowerment Model The model is then utilised in a broader discussion of empowerment community development and ecologically sustainable development ESD The book is scholarly and authoritative yet accessible to a broad intelligent readership as an illustrated account of a fascinating cultural phenomenon It will be valuable to students of architecture planning sociology community psychology and environmental studies It will also be useful to architects planners and other professionals The book contains in depth information for participants in the growing cohousing ecovillage sustainability and communities movements It is well recognised that such activists face a scarcity of successful examples of sustainable communities from which to draw knowledge and inspiration This book will help fill that void Cohousing and Sustainability Rating Systems Lee Ann Davis,2010
