The Psychology of Emotions Carroll E. Izard, 1991-10-31 Emotions are a part of personality and essential to all human relationships but how well do we understand what they really are What are the processes by which they occur and influence us How do they affect the way we perceive and interact with the world In The Psychology of Emotions author Carroll E Izard provides a timely overview that focuses on the relevance of emotions to our daily lives as he addresses these and other fundamental questions on the activation expression experience and functions of emotions

Human Emotions Carroll E. Izard, 2013-11-11 In recent years especially the past decade in sharp contrast to preceding decades knowledge in the field of emotions has been steadily increasing This knowledge comes from many different specialties Emotion is a truly interdisciplinary subject Workers in the fields of physiology neurology ethology physiological psychology personality and social psychology clinical psychology and psychiatry medicine nursing social work and the clergy are all directly concerned with emotion Professions such as law and architecture have an obvious concern with emotions as they affect human motives and needs The various branches of art especially the performing arts certainly deal with the emotions especially with the expression of emotions Constantine Stanislavsky the Russian theatrical genius revolutionized modern theater by developing a training method for actors and actresses that emphasized creating genuine emotion on the stage the emotion appropriate to the character and the life situation being depicted Indeed one can hardly think of any human activity that is not related in some way to the field of emotion Since the contributions to the subject of emotions come from so many different disciplines it is difficult to find the important common themes that can yield an understanding of the field as a whole This volume will attempt to make that task easier but I recognize that no one can treat all of the diverse material expertly and in detail My aim will be to represent all important types of contributions and perhaps point the way for further and more intensive study of special topics

The Psychobiology of Emotions Jack George Thompson, 2013-06-29 Regardless of culture most adult humans report experiencing similar feelings such as anger fear humor and joy Such subjective emotional states however are not universal Members of some cultures deny experiencing specific emotions such as fear or grief Moreover within any culture individuals differ widely in their self reports of both the variety and intensity of their emotions Some people report a vivid tapestry of positive and negative emotional experiences Other people report that a single emotion such as depression or fear totally dominates their existences Still others report flat and barren emotional lives Over the past 100 years scientists have proposed numerous rival explanations of why such large individual differences in emotions occur Various authors have offered anthropological biochemical ethological neurological psychological and sociological models of human emotions Indeed the sheer number of competing theories precludes a comprehensive review in a single volume Accordingly only a representative sample of models are discussed in this book and many equally important theories have been omitted These omissions were not intended to prejudice the reader in favor of any particular conceptual framework Rather this selective coverage was intended to focus attention upon the empirical findings that contemporary theories attempt to explain
