Critical Thinking and Language Tim John Moore, 2011-10-13 This book clarifies the idea of critical thinking by investigating the critical practices of academics across a range of disciplines Drawing on key theorists Wittgenstein Geertz Williams Halliday and using a textographic approach the book explores how the concept of critical thinking is understood by academics and also how it is constructed discursively in the texts and practices they employ in their teaching Critical thinking is one of the most widely discussed concepts in debates on university learning For many the idea of teaching students to be critical thinkers characterizes more than anything else the overriding purpose of higher education But whilst there is general agreement about its importance as an educational ideal there is surprisingly little agreement about what the concept means exactly Also at issue is how and what students need to be taught in order to be properly critical in their field This searching monograph seeks answers to these important questions

Teaching for Christian Wisdom Samy Estafanos, 2018-08-20 In many ways Christian education in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt was deeply influenced by public education in Egypt One of the negative consequences of such influence is the significant lack of developing and using critical thinking as a basic element of the process While multiple factors educational and theological contribute to forming it this problem manifests itself in many ways The present research deals with the lack of critical thinking as a central problematic reality of the Christian education process in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt In order to illuminate and address this problematic situation Richard Osmer's understanding of Christian education as practical theology is used to bring into dialogue American philosopher psychologist and educator John Dewey and reformer and theologian John Calvin In light of this dialogue not only the lack of critical thinking but also multiple other dimensions of the problematic situation of Christian education in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt are illuminated Lack of democracy lack of the use of experience lack of creative pedagogies lack of practical reason and lack of theology from the process are some of these dimensions Adapting Osmer's comprehensive approach to Christian education as practical theology Samy Estafanos proposes

Reasoning and Writing Donald L. Hatcher, L. Anne Spencer, 1993 Philosophy, Reasoned Belief, and Faith Paul Herrick, 2022-06-01 This clear readable introduction to philosophy presents a traditional theistic view of the existence of God There are many fine introductions to philosophy but few are written for students of faith by a teacher who is sensitive to the intellectual challenges they face studying in an environment that is often hostile to religious belief Many introductory texts present short easy to refute synopses of the traditional arguments for God's existence the soul free will and objective moral value rooted in God's nature usually followed by strong objections stated as if they are the last word This formula may make philosophy easier to digest but it gives many students the impression that there are no longer any good reasons to accept the beliefs just mentioned Philosophy Reasoned Belief and Faith is written for philosophy instructors who want their students to take a deeper look at the classic theistic arguments and who believe that many traditional views can be rigorously defended against the strongest objections The book is divided into four sections focusing on philosophy of religion an introduction to epistemology philosophy of the human person and philosophical ethics The text challenges naturalism the predominant outlook in the academic world today while postmodernist relativism and skepticism are also examined and rejected Students of faith and students without faith will deepen their worldviews by thoughtfully examining the philosophical arguments that are presented in this book Philosophy Reasoned Belief and Faith will appeal to Christian teachers analytic theists home educators and general readers interested in the classic arguments supporting a theistic worldview
