

Entrepreneurship questions and answers

Give a brief description of each of the five(5) reasons which motivated people to start their own business?

.1.1 Making Money (Profit)

Entrepreneurship provides for one's financial needs, in as much as any other type of job would do. It is claimed that self employment individuals are four times likely to be millionaires than those who are formally employed. From an economic angle the financial return of a business should compensate its owner not only for his time and investment of personal time but also for any personal money invested in the business.

.1.2 Be Your Own Boss

Most people leave employment for one reason, i.e. to be their own bosses. Many people have a strong desire to make their own decisions, take risks and reap rewards. Entrepreneurs in general appreciate the independence inherent in their decision careers. They do things their own way, reap their own profits and set their own schedules. Independence does not guarantee easy life because some entrepreneurs work hard and long hours.

.1.3 Escape A Bad Situation (Freedom)

Some people if not satisfied in their jobs will try to set up a business of their own while others may seek change out of necessity. E.g. after being laid off from employment from those with experience in managerial, professional, technical and even relatively unskilled positions often contemplate the possibility of starting their own ventures. Individuals who enter into business ownership because of financial hardships or other severe negative conditions are called reluctant entrepreneurs.

.1.4 Enjoy A Satisfying Life (Personal Satisfaction)

Some entrepreneurs refer to their own work as fun because of the satisfaction they derive from working for themselves. Most satisfaction comes from independence. The reward may be derived from a pleasurable activity, from enjoyable associations, from respect in the community etc.

.1.5 Contribute The Community (Personal Fulfillment)

Certain individuals will get involved in running their own shops just to contribute to the community
