The Cognitive Science of Religion D. Jason Slone, William W. McCorkle Jr., 2019-01-10 The Cognitive Science of Religion introduces students to key empirical studies conducted over the past 25 years in this new and rapidly expanding field. In these studies cognitive scientists of religion have applied the theories, findings and research tools of the cognitive sciences to understanding religious thought, behaviour and social dynamics. Each chapter is written by a leading international scholar and summarizes in non-technical language the original empirical study conducted by the scholar. No prior or statistical knowledge is presumed and studies included range from the classic to the more recent and innovative cases. Students will learn about the theories that cognitive scientists have employed to explain recurrent features of religiosity across cultures and historical eras, how scholars have tested those theories and what the results of those tests have revealed and suggest. Written to be accessible to undergraduates, this provides a much needed survey of empirical studies in the cognitive science of religion.

How America Lost Its Mind Thomas E. Patterson, 2019-10-03 Americans are losing touch with reality. On virtually every issue from climate change to immigration, tens of millions of Americans have opinions and beliefs wildly at odds with fact, rendering them unable to think sensibly about politics. In How America Lost Its Mind, Thomas E. Patterson explains the rise of a world of alternative facts and the slow-motion cultural and political calamity unfolding around us. We don't have to search far for the forces that are misleading us and tearing us apart: politicians for whom division is a strategy, talk-show hosts who have made an industry of outrage, news outlets that wield conflict as a marketing tool, and partisan organizations and foreign agents who spew disinformation to advance a cause, make a buck, or simply amuse themselves. The consequences are severe. How America Lost Its Mind maps a political landscape convulsed with distrust, gridlock, brinksmanship, petty feuding, and deceptive messaging. As dire as this picture is, and as unlikely as immediate relief might be, Patterson sees a way forward and underscores its urgency. A call to action, his book encourages us to wrest institutional power from ideologues and disruptors and entrust it to sensible citizens and leaders to restore our commitment to mutual tolerance and restraint, to cleanse the Internet of fake news and disinformation, and to demand a steady supply of trustworthy and relevant information from our news sources. As philosopher Hannah Arendt wrote decades ago, the rise of demagogues is abetted by people for whom the distinction between fact and fiction, true and false, no longer exists. In How America Lost Its Mind, Thomas E. Patterson makes a passionate case for fully and fiercely engaging on the side of truth and mutual respect in our present arms race between fact and fake, unity and division, civility and incivility. B.A.S.I.C., 1969

Promoting Online Voices for Countering Violent Extremism Todd C. Helmus, Erin York, Peter Chalk, 2013 American Muslims have played an important role in helping to counter violent extremism (CVE) and support for al-Qaida and are increasingly using the Internet and social media to these ends. Discussions with a number of Muslim leaders active in social media suggest that it is possible to expand such efforts even further and doing so is a major objective of the August 2011

White House strategy to counter violent extremism RAND researchers reviewed literature and interviewed American Muslims experienced in social media to understand and explain key challenges facing Muslim activists against extremism and to identify ways in which the public and private sector can help empower CVE voices online Their recommendations include reducing the national security focus of CVE where possible addressing sources of mistrust within the Muslim community focusing engagement and education on those influential in social media and enhancing both government and private sector funding and engagement World Meetings Outside United States and Canada ,1987 Adweek ,2010 Advertising's Ten Best of the Decade, 1980-1990 Mary Warlick,1990 U.S. News & World Report ,2007 World Meetings ,1992 Fundamental Virology Bernard N.
