Closing the Educational Achievement Gap for Students With Learning Disabilities Nyemba, Florence, Chitiyo, Rufaro Audrey, 2023-10-04 Recently there has been a growing demand for diversity and inclusion in schools worldwide to ensure effective learning for every student. Efforts have been made to support teachers in promoting diversity in classrooms but research shows that students with learning disabilities LD including autism spectrum disorder neurodevelopmental disabilities dyslexia and executive dysfunction still struggle to keep up despite having individualized education programs IEPs. These students are not receiving the necessary support they need to learn effectively in the classroom leaving them behind and often completely unprepared for their futures. When intersectional statistics are taken into account students who have a learning disability and are among minority ethnic groups have even lower rates of earning a diploma than their counterparts. Changes in the educational system must be made to close this learning chasm and create a more equitable learning environment. Closing the Educational Achievement Gap for Students With Learning Disabilities increases awareness of the issue of inequalities in education for students with learning disabilities through improved training programs for teachers recommendations for policy changes and development of new strategies to close the gap between these students and their classmates. The goal of this book is to educate and empower educators researchers and policymakers on how they can help students with learning disabilities thrive academically and emotionally. It examines the barriers that prevent teachers from effectively providing instruction to these students. This book covers topics such as achievement gaps student centered approaches and culturally responsive teaching and is ideal for educators professionals researchers special education professionals speech and occupational therapists disability service providers intervention strategists psychologists parents and local communities.

This second edition has been created to support practitioners who work with young children with delayed language acquisition. Each chapter offers an overview of research relating to the specific language skill before introducing targeted games and activities that can help support the development of those skills.

Child Language Jean Stilwell Peccei, 1999

Child Language is a comprehensive introduction to child language introducing students to the key theories of language acquisition and teaching them skills for analyzing children's language. It covers the core areas of language acquisition: phonological, semantic, syntactic, morphological and discourse development. The bilingual child and language development in exceptional circumstances draws on a range of real texts and data, provides classic readings by the key names in the discipline: J. Becker, Roger Brown, R. Ely, Jean Berko, Gleason, J. N. Jorgenson, D. Messer, S. Pinker and N. Smith.

Language for Thinking Stephen Parsons, Anna Branagan, 2005

While most children develop verbal reasoning skills with relative ease, others find it more challenging. Verbal reasoning is particularly difficult for children who are recognised as having delayed language skills, specific language impairment, Autistic Spectrum Disorder including Asperger's Syndrome, pragmatic language impairment or moderate learning difficulties. Children with less obvious oral language difficulties may begin to struggle when they start to read. This photocopiable resource provides a clear structure to assist teachers, SENCOs, learning support assistants and speech language therapists in developing children's language from the concrete to the abstract. It is based on fifty picture and verbal scenarios that can be used flexibly with a wide range of ages and abilities. Quick, practical and easy to use in the classroom, this programme can be used with individual children in small groups or can form the basis of a literacy lesson or speech language therapy session. Question sheets are carefully structured to promote children's development of inference, verbal reasoning and thinking skills. The three parallel assessments of spoken and written language can be used to assess each child's starting level and then to monitor progress. Score forms and worksheets for each lesson are included.
