Computing with Data Guy Lebanon, Mohamed El-Geish, 2018-11-28 This book introduces basic computing skills designed for industry professionals without a strong computer science background. Written in an easily accessible manner and accompanied by a user friendly website, it serves as a self study guide to survey data science and data engineering for those who aspire to start a computing career or expand on their current roles in areas such as applied statistics, big data, machine learning, data mining, and informatics. The authors draw from their combined experience working at software and social network companies on big data products at several major online retailers, as well as their experience building big data systems for an AI startup. Spanning from the basic inner workings of a computer to advanced data manipulation techniques, this book opens doors for readers to quickly explore and enhance their computing knowledge. Computing with Data comprises a wide range of computational topics essential for data scientists, analysts, and engineers, providing them with the necessary tools to be successful in any role that involves computing with data. The introduction is self contained, and chapters progress from basic hardware concepts to operating systems, programming languages, graphing, and processing data, testing, and programming tools, big data frameworks, and cloud computing. The book is fashioned with several audiences in mind. Readers without a strong educational background in CS, or those who need a refresher, will find the chapters on hardware, operating systems, and programming languages particularly useful. Readers with a strong educational background in CS but without significant industry background will find the following chapters especially beneficial: learning R, testing, programming, visualizing, and processing data in Python and R, system design for big data, data stores, and software craftsmanship.
