The Radical Case for Teaching Skim Reading in First-Year Writing Ellen C. Carillo, 2025-10-15 The Radical Case for Teaching Skim Reading in First Year Writing encourages faculty particularly in writing studies to check internal biases toward deep reading and teach skim reading in first year writing courses Written by Ellen C Carillo who has previously published on the importance of teaching deep reading this small book is a controversial prompt for further discussion and exploration Data from studies of the lived experiences of undergraduates indicate that students do not need deep reading practices in the majority of their classes across the disciplines and moreover that students succeed in their classes by skim reading Rather than imagining an idealized set of circumstances that allow for sustained deep reading as does a great deal of the scholarship on reading in writing studies The Radical Case for Teaching Skim Reading in First Year Writing argues for teaching students reading practices that will support their success in their college writing assignments rather than those strategies the field believes should support their success In our information landscape and our fragile democracy encouraging skimming as opposed to deep reading may seem like a gamble this very tendency toward the quick rather than the critical has undoubtedly contributed to the current crisis of mass misinformation However teaching students to use skim reading as a strategic tool for purposeful engagement and efficient yet thoughtful information filtering better equips them to navigate the rapidly changing information landscape and manage the fast paced flow of content from diverse media sources

□□□□□□ □□□, 2014 The solo exhibition Ai Weiwei absent at Taipei Fine Arts Museum TFAM is the artist's first large scale solo exhibition to be held anywhere in the ethnic Chinese world The museum presents the exhibition to convey Ai Weiwei's dynamic works of art, his ideas and influential power to audience. Ai Weiwei's 'Absent' presents 21 sets of artwork spanning a period from the 1980s to 2011, encompassing a variety of forms such as installation and video and using a variety of materials such as ceramics, marble, antique utensils and bicycles. It also includes a series of over 100 photographic works, 75 of which were taken by the artist during his stay in New York between 1983 and 1993, while the other 25 pieces were shot after he moved back to Beijing's East Village in 1993. The artist's most recent work 'Forever Bicycles', created specially for this exhibition, is composed of 1,200 bicycles and installed in an exhibition space 10 meters high. Bicycles have long been the most common means of transport in China and as such are both familiar and intimate, but Ai Weiwei strips away the functionality of the object. He takes his own sensitivity and preferences and through them expands the idea of using finished objects. The use of 1,200 bikes and the large structure of the work were particular challenges in the construction of the piece. In addition, as the bikes are piled layer upon layer on top of each other, their wheel axles are transformed to form a labyrinthine-like space. Visitors can appreciate and reflect on the aesthetics of the abstract shapes from different angles at the same time, feeling first-hand the work's great energy and appeal.
