Academic Journal Rankings Business Ulvang:

Accounting for Research Quality Michael Rowlinson, 2015 The question of whether and how research quality should be measured and the consequences of research audits such as the UK's Research Excellence Framework REF formerly the RAE are considered in relation to the role of journal ratings such as the Association of Business Schools Academic Journal Quality Guide the ABS Guide Criticism of the ABS Guide has distracted attention from the results of successive RAEs where the panel for Business and Management has been one of the most selective in its allocation of the highest grades especially when compared with the neighbouring field of Economics If the ABS Guide had been used to grade outputs submitted for Business and Management in the RAE 2008 then many more outputs would have received the highest grades especially in accounting where outputs from journals such as Critical Perspectives on Accounting which are highly rated in the ABS Guide appear to have been downgraded by the RAE panel The alleged bias against accounting in the ABS Guide rests on a particular interpretation of citation impact factors for journals and a narrow definition of subject fields With an estimated ratio of 71 full time students per research active faculty member in UK business schools it may be time to consider a more appropriate inclusive and economical form of ranking for research in business and management JOURNAL RANKINGS AND THE NOTION OF RELEVANCE WITHIN BUSINESS RESEARCH. Per Freytag, 2018

The Dynamics of Researcher Journal Quality Perception and Ranking Divergence Cormac Bryce, Michael M. Dowling, Brian M. Lucey, 2018 We explore the drivers of researchers' perceptions around academic journal quality and how these perceptions converge or diverge with rankings through a large scale survey of UK business school researchers Our survey was conducted in advance of the release of the new Academic Journal Guide AJG rankings list in early 2018 and resulted in 19 997 individual journal rankings There is a notable journal quality perception gap in these rankings with 42% of the subjective rankings differing from the AJG 2018 rankings We find that personal and institutional demographics are major baseline drivers of the presence of such a journal quality perception gap Of particular additional importance is a researcher's connection to and investment in the AJG system of ranking Individual journal past experiences such as being a reviewer or having submitted to a journal are also linked to ranking divergence and especially higher perception of journal quality compared to actual journal rank Our research thus provides new insights into how researchers interact with journal ranking systems in light of their own perceptions of quality We propose how the key stakeholders in journal rankings business schools journal editors ranking bodies and the business and management community can incorporate these findings to ensure coherency between individual school and national assessments of research quality A New Method for Ranking Academic Journals in Accounting and Finance Vivien A. Beattie, 2006

Given the many and varied uses to which journal rankings are put interest in ranking journal quality is likely to persist Unfortunately existing methods of constructing such rankings all have inherent limitations This paper proposes a new complementary approach based on submissions to the most recent UK research assessment exercise RAE 2001 which is not restricted to a pre defined journal set and importantly is based on quality choice decisions driven by economic incentives For three metrics submissions to RAE 2001 are compared with the available set of publications to provide evidence on the perception of journal quality a fourth metric is based on the overall RAE grades and an overall ranking is produced

Finding the Best Business School for You Everette E. Dennis, Sharon P. Smith, 2006-06-30 Ultimately finding the best and most appropriate business school requires more than following trends and assessing rankings Dennis and Smith offer an approach that is designed to help prospective MBA students cast their nets widely thinking more expansively creatively and strategically with both short and long term implications in mind Discussing the pros and cons of a formal business education in the context of evolving attitudes toward management and the role of the MBA in developing successful leaders the authors help readers identify their underlying motivations for pursuing an MBA learn how to read between the lines of the popular rankings and utilize the concept of return on investment ROI to evaluate programs on the basis of their contribution to long term professional and personal goals At a time when one fourth of all master s degrees conferred are in business Finding the Best Business School for You offers practical insights for making wise decisions and getting the most out of the MBA experience The truth is that in response to changes in the global business environment many schools are redesigning their curricula forging closer ties with businesses and giving students more freedom to customize their degrees Some of the most innovative programs are being designed at public universities and other institutions out of the spotlight

Rankings in the Eyes of the Beholder Kim Fam, 2014 The ranking of academic journals is a contentious issue in the current higher education environment Across the world peers judge academics for tenure and promotion on the basis of the quality or prestige of the journals in which they publish This research proposes a new metric i e the MAG score to assess journal impact and ranking in the field of marketing using the vox populi approach The findings show that the vox populi approach provides a more comprehensive measure of journal impact than other impact factor metrics from the perspective of academics

An Update of the Vox Populi Approach to Academic Journal Rankings James Richard, Kim Fam, Geoff Plimmer, Stephan Gerschewski, 2013 The ranking of academic journals continues to be a contentious issue in the tertiary education environment Academics dependency on journal ranking for tenure and promotion based on perceived quality and prestige of journals ensures debate over what constitutes a good journal publication This study utilises the vox populi MAG score established in previous research in order to continue the assessment of journal ranking and impact in the field of marketing The current findings are consistent with the previous 2009 study the top six journals remain the same there is little variation within the top 30 journal rankings although regional differences are apparent The ranking results from a broad range of academics continue to provide a comprehensive measure of journal impact from the perspective of academics

Journal Evaluation, Selection, and Ranking Vasile Tega, 1978* Academic Journal Quality Guide Version 4 Charles Harvey, Huw Morris, Michael Rowlinson, 2010-11-11 The ABS Academic Journal Quality Guide is based partly upon peer review partly upon statistical information relating to citation and partly upon editorial judgements following from the detailed evaluation of many hundreds of publications over a long period It provides a guide to the range subject matter and relative quality of journals in which business and management academics might publish the results of their research Ranking Journals in Economics, Management and Political Sciences by the Threshold Aggregation Procedure Fuad T. Aleskerov,2014 An analysis of journal rankings based on five commonly used bibliometric indicators impact factor article influence score Source Normalized Impact per Paper SCImago Journal Rank and the Hirsch index has been conducted It is shown that despite a high correlation these single indicator based rankings are not identical Therefore a new approach to ranking academic journals is proposed based on the aggregation of single bibliometric indicators using threshold aggregation The main property of this procedure is its non compensability which reduces opportunities for manipulation Journal Rankings Don Johnson,2016

Journal Reputations and Academic Reputations - The Role of Ranking Studies Daniela Rosenstreich,2009 Journal ranking studies are a popular means of assessing research performance but are subject to criticism An analysis of rankings of marketing journals is undertaken revealing consistency in rankings across regions and methodologies Agreement is most strong for the very top journals Explanations for the consistency in rankings and implications of it are discussed Journal evaluation, selection, and ranking ,1978 Subdiscipline-specific Journal Rankings in Economics Christopher Brendan

Barrett,DeeVon Bailey,Aliakbar Olia,Utah State University. Department of Economics,Utah State University. Economic Research Institute,1996 Towards a Consolidation of Worldwide Journal Rankings -- A Classification Using Random Forests and Aggregate Rating Via Data Envelopment Analysis Grigory Pishchulov,Heinz Tuselmann,Rudolf R Sinkovics,2014 The question of how to assess research outputs published in journals is now a global concern for academics Numerous journal ratings and rankings exist some featuring perceptual and peer review based journal ranks some focusing on objective information related to citations some using a combination of the two This research consolidates existing journal rankings into an up to date and comprehensive list Existing approaches to determining journal rankings are significantly advanced with the application of a new classification approach random forests and data envelopment analysis As a result a fresh look at a publication s place in the global research community is offered While our approach is applicable to all management and business journals we specifically exemplify the relative position of operations research management science production and operations management journals within the broader management field as well as within their own subject domain The Brc Academy Journal of Business Brc Western New York,2012-02 The Business Research Consortium of WNY promotes academic scholarship related to business and economics The first annual conference was held at Canisius College Buffalo NY in Spring 2006 The BRC publishes the following four journals The BRC Academy Journal of Business a journal for superior scholarship in business research BRC Journal of Advances in Business a journal dedicated to publishing preliminary investigations and emerging studies in business The BRC Academy Journal of Education a journal for superior scholarship in education with a focus on business education BRC Journal of Advances in Education a journal dedicated to publishing case studies methods and innovations in education     Rankings of Academic Journals and Institutions in Economics Pantelis Kalaitzidakis, Theofanis P.
