

Applying Scientific Methods

A college chemistry student is studying the properties of four unknown compounds, W, X, Y, and Z. She has been informed that one of them is ionic and that the other three are covalent. Of the latter, she has been told that the attractions between the formula units are dispersion forces in one case, hydrogen bonds in another, and covalent (network) bonds in another. She has been asked to determine the type of attractions for each substance. In an attempt to do so, she carries out experiments that reveal information about the substances' properties. Use this information to answer the questions that follow.

Property	Unknown W	Unknown X	Unknown Y	Unknown Z
Hardness of solid	soft	soft	brittle	brittle
Melting point ($^{\circ}\text{C}$)	-10	-200	1500	3000
Boiling point ($^{\circ}\text{C}$)	120	-150	2500	4500
Solubility in polar solvent	very soluble	insoluble	very soluble	insoluble
Solubility in nonpolar solvent	insoluble	very soluble	insoluble	insoluble
Conductivity of solid	nonconducting	nonconducting	nonconducting	nonconducting
Conductivity of liquid	nonconducting	nonconducting	conducting	nonconducting

1. On the basis of the results of her hardness test, the student concludes that unknowns W and X are covalent substances, and that either Y or Z is the ionic substance. Comment on the soundness of her conclusion, given only the hardness information.

Basic Chemistry Steven S. Zumdahl, 2004 Description Not Yet Available Classroom Assessment Peter W. Airasian, 2001 Airasian presents complex concepts clearly so that pre service teachers can understand them and solidly grounds these concepts in best practice through practical real well integrated examples He talks to not at users The text conceives of classroom assessment in a broader way than many other texts. It focuses not only on the assessment needs of testing, grading, interpreting standardized tests and performance assessments but also on assessment concerns in organizing a classroom at the start of school planning and implementing instruction and strategies of teacher self-reflection. It views classroom assessment as an everyday, ongoing, integral part of teaching, not something that is separated from life in classrooms. The text is organized in a manner that follows the natural progression of teacher decision making from organizing the class as a learning community to planning and conducting instruction to the formal evaluation of learning and finally to grading.

Psychology: The Science of Person, Mind, and Brain Daniel Cervone, 2015-01-28. In Psychology: The Science of Person, Mind, and Brain, experienced teacher, researcher, and author Daniel Cervone provides students with a new and exciting way of understanding psychology. Cervone organizes material around three levels of analysis: person, mind, and brain, and employs a person-first format that consistently introduces topics at the person level, theory, and research on the lives of people in sociocultural contexts. Students are able to make sense of the latest research through what they understand best: people. With fellow teacher and researcher Tracy Caldwell, Cervone has conceived a text beyond the print experience from the ground up, integrating online immersive research experiences and assessment tools that capitalize on research findings on pedagogy and student learning, e.g., the testing effect. Pedagogical Author Tracy L. Caldwell, working closely with Daniel Cervone, fellow teacher and researcher Tracy Caldwell of Dominican University, developed the book's pedagogical program from the Preview Questions at the beginning of each section to the Self Tests at the end of each chapter. The pedagogy is designed to engage students at multiple levels of Bloom's taxonomy and at multiple points in each chapter.
